

Victims of Hurricane Hattie which devastated Belize in British Honduras line up for food and water under the eyes of soldiers brought in to stop looting.

Ruined City Abandoned As Capital

BELIZE—The government of British Honduras, counting more than 140 dead from Hurricane Hattie, announced Thursday the capital, Belize, will be moved away from the Caribbean coast.

Island Man Critically Injured

A 37-year-old former Victorian was critically injured at Campbell River late yesterday and was rushed through an Island storm to St. Joseph's Hospital here last night for a delicate brain operation.

Suffering a compound fracture of the skull after his sports car plunged out of control and landed upside-down on the courtyard of Campbell River's municipal hall is Willem Gibbons.

WRECK STORM

Gibbons, father of a teenage boy, was brought here by Campbell River ambulance through the worst storm to sweep Vancouver Island since last winter.

Ambulance driver Douglas Robinson last night said he had been able to travel at 50 to 60 miles an hour through rain, sleet and high winds for most of the 100-mile route and lauded the co-operation of other traffic in keeping out of his way.

WRONG HOSPITAL

But through a mix-up in plans he went to the wrong hospital first. Originally he was to have gone to Royal Jubilee but no beds were available. He had not been notified of a pre-arranged switch to St. Joseph's and had to make his own way through city traffic unescorted.

Hospital authorities reported Gibbons' condition as serious on arrival and said he was to be taken into surgery immediately.

Premier George Price said more than 140 bodies had been recovered and he feared the death toll will go much higher as workers clear out mountains of debris littering the stricken Central American colony.

TOWN SHATTERED

Winds of 200 miles an hour and huge tidal waves crashed into the central Caribbean coast early Tuesday, smashing paths of death and destruction. Belize was shattered.

It was the second major hurricane disaster here in 30 years and Price said the government has decided to move the capital 44 miles away, to higher ground.

SEARCH GOES ON

Survivors plodded along the deep mud and wreckage-strewn streets Thursday looking for the many still missing. Three U.S. navy ships and a British frigate arrived with aid yesterday. Sailors, appalled by the wasteland of muck and rubble, stripped blankets from their bunks for the wandering refugees.

CANTEN SET UP

Sailors aboard the frigate Bristol set up a canteen and handed out soup and other nourishment. The navy said there was a desperate need for tents and other temporary housing.

Martial law prevailed and troops were on their way from Jamaica to aid in controlling the looting.

There was another peril from hundreds of snakes which took refuge on high ground from the floods.

Nehru Sets Cairo Visit

CAIRO (UPI)—The Indian embassy here said yesterday that Prime Minister Nehru will confer with UAR President Nasser before he visits the United States. Nehru is due to arrive in New York on Sunday.

FIFTY PER CENT RATE CUT LIKELY, SAYS BCE CHAIRMAN

Next April Eyed As 'Logical' Time

By PETER BRUTON

Next April 1 would be the "logical" time for province-wide electricity rate reductions, B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said yesterday—and the rates may be approximately halved.

At the same time he said the overall objective was to reduce B.C. power rates to about the same level as the rates of Ontario Hydro.

(A Dominion Bureau of Statistics report for last Dec. 31 showed that a consumer who bought 300 kilowatt hours of electricity a month paid $4.11 in Toronto and $9.53 in Vancouver. The figures for 800 kilowatt hours were $4.68 in Toronto and $11.53 in Vancouver.)

(The average monthly consumption rates were 448 kwh in Toronto and 363 kwh in Vancouver.)

Dr. Shrum, who was giving a "report to shareholders" of the BCE, spoke at the meeting of Victoria Rotary Club yesterday.

"Our objective is to see that we give maximum reductions to smaller users," he said, adding that it would not be "easy" to get rates down to the Ontario Hydro level.

Saddled with Buses

Dr. Shrum said the BCE was saddled with its unprofitable and money-losing bus service and also that the B.C. Electric had to pay as much as $1 an hour more in some cases for union labor than its eastern counterpart.

"Therefore we may have to wait until we get a large block of power on line before we can get down to Ontario rates," he said.

The chairman added that Ontario rates were rising while B.C. rates would get lower.

Announcements that there would be a rate cut in areas served by both the B.C. Hydro and the B.C. Electric was made one week ago by Premier Bennett.

Yesterday Dr. Shrum said that the rates would come down after Jan. 1 and would be "significant." The most logical time for the cuts to take effect, he said, would be April 1 when both Crown agencies have their new budgets.

Dr. Shrum also said:

• Many resignations among executives of the BCE are imminent.

• Both the BCE and B.C. Hydro will merge into one entity within five years.

• Realignment of territories by the two agencies is hoped to be accomplished by absorbing all presently employed personnel.

'Don't Be Alarmed'

Dr. Shrum said all resignations from the BCE had been above the manager and supervisor level "and these are the people who make the company go."

"All vacancies have been filled by promotions in the company except an executive assistant for myself," he said. "More resignations are coming up and quite senior ones. And there will have to be more because we have a surplus of senior staff."

"There will be more," he added.

"There will be more this week but don't be alarmed."

Dr. Shrum said there would be no reductions in the Victoria staff.

Realignment of territories under which the B.C. Hydro will take over power distribution in Victoria and on Vancouver Island was a logical, sensible thing, he continued.

Eventually both entities would be merged but this was not the time to do it when both had gigantic projects under way.

Eventual Merger

"By the time the Columbia is completed the two agencies will be merged," he said. "It will be within five years."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE would absorb all B.C. Hydro employees on the mainland and would continue to pay their present salaries and honor pension plans.

"Practically the same thing will be done over here when the power commission takes over from the BCE," added the chairman. "There will be some staff reductions but I think these can be handled by normal staff turnover."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE had placed "a complete freeze" on new hirings at all levels.

He also said that it was planned to set one electricity level for the whole province although "we might not be able to do this immediately."

He said the rate cuts would apply to private consumers.

"Industrial rates are not too far out of line," said Dr. Shrum.

It's Fallout Friday For Vancouver Island

Radioactive fallout from the recent Russian 50-megaton-plus nuclear blast will be somewhat higher than expected when it arrives over Vancouver Island today if rain happens to fall.

Since showers are forecast, Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory said the increase in fallout could be "quite significant" if the poisonous cloud arrives on schedule.

"We would get fallout from the cloud in any event," he said. "If it rains, we'll get a fair amount more."

He added that an increase in radioactivity in such a case would be in the rain itself and not in the air.

Big Powers Defeated In 'End Tests' Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Crushing opposition by the great powers, the United Nations political committee voted Thursday night for an immediate cessation of nuclear tests on a voluntary basis.

The committee voted 72 to 21 with eight abstentions for a resolution sponsored by India and five other countries. It urges both the powers concerned to refrain from further test explosions pending the conclusion of international binding agreements in regard to tests.

ALLIES OPPOSE IT

All the nuclear powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—opposed the resolution.

Immediately after the vote, the U.S. demanded priority for an Anglo-American draft seeking an end to all nuclear testing under a formal treaty with international control and inspection.

BLOW FOR RUSSIA

Russia suffered a defeat in preliminary voting when the committee debated from the Indian draft a phrase relating to general and complete disarmament.

The margin of victory for the resolution—co-sponsored by Ghana, Nepal, the United Arab Republic, Ethiopia and Yugoslavia—apparently insures its passage later in the General Assembly.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two more Russian nuclear tests, bringing to 28 the number announced by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, were exploded early Thursday in the atmosphere.

Both were of moderate force.

Winter Strikes Island

Vancouver Island's first snowfall of the winter whirled gently down on several points yesterday, leaving a brief blanket of white on some highways, two or three inches of snow on high ground—and some extra water in the gutters of inland towns.

RCMP posts say the fall was too light to be more than a temporary inconvenience to motorists.

No snow had fallen in Victoria up to press time today.

Some two inches of the white stuff settled on highway No. 4, west of Qualicum, but had melted by last night.

Britain May Switch To Tenpenny 'Bob'

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported yesterday to be nearing a final decision to convert to decimal coinage.

Reports said Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd will make a statement on the long-discussed switch before Christmas.

Most favored plan is to go over to a new shilling worth 10 pence and a pound worth 10 shillings.

The shilling (14 2/3 cents) now is made up of 12 pence. There are 20 shillings in the pound (£2.00).

Katanga Invasion Claim Rejected

'Successes' Called Inventions

LEOPOLDVILLE—Gen. Joseph Mobutu, commander-in-chief of the central Congo army, said Thursday his troops had advanced more than 35 miles on a general offensive into secessionist Katanga province — a claim rejected by Katanga officials.

Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba told a press conference in the provincial capital of Elisabethville that the successes claimed by Mobutu were "pure inventions."

Kimba said the Katanga army was repulsing the attack of the Congolese "aggressors" in the Kaniama border area about 500 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Lt. Gen. Sean McKown, Irish Commander of the United Nations forces in the Congo, received urgent orders here Thursday to end his leave and return immediately to the Congo.

Mobutu claimed his troops had advanced over a wide front into Katanga in a bid to forcibly end the secession of the mineral-rich province and bring it under Leopoldville's control.

"From the viewpoint of military courage," he said, Katanga President Moise Tshombe forces put up no resistance. A dispatch from Kolwezi, an air base and copper mining town 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville, said Mobutu's drive was launched by at least one battalion, with other forces in reserve in Kasai. The main thrust apparently was down the railroad from Lulabourg in Kasai, through Kanama, 20 miles inside the Katanga border, toward Elisabethville.

Mobutu declined to disclose the size of his force, its exact position or ultimate objective.

Premier Cyrille Adoula announced Monday the Congo was undertaking "police action" to end the Katanga secession which Tshombe proclaimed for his province soon after Congo independence 16 months ago.

Small UN forces, without air support, met unexpected resistance from Katangan guerrillas led by white officers hired by Tshombe when the UN command attempted to terminate the secession in September.

Top Cuban's Relative Defects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The young sister-in-law of Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa asked for political asylum in the United States yesterday.

Immigration authorities took her request under advisement.

The young woman, Sara Kouri Barreto, had been working as secretary to Ambassador Carlos Lechuga Cuba's representative to the Organization of American States.

She is the sister of Roa's wife, Ada Kouri Roa. Their nephew is Premier Fidel Castro's ambassador to Communist Czechoslovakia.

Immigration authorities said Miss Barreto, a brown-eyed brunette of 25, appeared at their downtown Washington office yesterday morning.

Big Powers Agree

UN Will Name UThant Today

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The big powers wrapped up an agreement Thursday night to name U Thant of Burma interim United Nations secretary-general in place of the late Dag Hammarskjold.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, November president of the Security Council, told reporters the council would meet this morning to recommend an acting secretary-general.

He had just had a 1½-hour conference with U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson in the latter's nearby mission.

A U.S. spokesman said Stevenson had agreed to have the council meeting today. Once the council recommends U Thant, it will then be for the General Assembly to appoint him. But no difficulty is expected over this. Diplomats said Zorin would not have scheduled the council meeting had agreement not been reached. But he declined to make any statement on this subject. He would say only, "everything will be clear tomorrow."

Moslems Riot

New Clash Kills Five In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — Five Moslems were killed and 19 injured yesterday at Relizane, southeast of Oran, when a crowd clashed with security forces in the European quarter of the town. Police said the crowd tried to destroy three houses whose European occupants had moved.

DOCTOR KILLED

In Algiers, a European doctor, the target of previous plastic bomb attacks, was shot to death. But strong police, security force and army patrols in the major cities kept violence far below that of Wednesday when scores were killed.

STORE DESTROYED

A plastic bomb destroyed a car in Bone, another plastic bomb destroyed a druggist's shop in Blida and two charges caused heavy damage and wounded one person in Algiers. There was a stabbing in Oran and a grenade explosion in Tiemcen.

I'd Drop the Bomb Again, Says Harry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former president Harry Truman, full of his typical Trumanisms, said yesterday he thought "all generals" should keep their mouths shut — apparently with every intention of including General Eisenhower.

Shrugging his aim toward Moscow, the 77-year-old Truman said the Russians belong in a "very hot place." They lack the nerve to drop a nuclear bomb on the United States, he said, knowing that "we'll lick 'em."

In a gentler vein, he told women reporters to marry a president if they wished to see the upstairs of the White House.

He said his decision to drop the first atomic bomb on Japan was "worth the price" because it saved a "quarter of a million people on both sides." He added: "If I had to do it again, I would."

Tossing a barb at Eisenhower, Truman said that he (Truman) and former president Herbert Hoover constituted the "former presidents' organization." "He is president and I'm secretary and that other fellow hasn't been taken in yet," he said.

British Plane Tagged By Two Russian Jets

BERLIN (UPI) — Two Russian jet fighters flew within 500 yards of a British airliner yesterday, shortly after it had taken off from a West Berlin airport en route to London, the pilot reported.

The incident came a few hours after U.S. replacements for the army's 6,500-man Berlin garrison arrived from West Germany in a new demonstration of American rights to travel to Berlin without East German controls.

Capt. D. J. Gray, pilot of the British European Airways plane, reported the flight incident during a stopover at Hannover. The Russian jets made no menacing moves, according to the pilot's report.

There were no incidents on the autobahn trip of the American troop replacements.

Wild Visitors

I was very interested in reading in the weekend edition of your paper, news from Sweden, detailing Stockholm, about the moose which was found running around loose within the city limits; the correspondent commenting upon this as being the only instance in any city of the world, etc.

I would venture to state that, in contradiction, Banff, Alberta, has also its share of wild animals roaming about the town at will. Not only do the moose patronize the town area; but also elk, mule deer, black bear, and even coyotes are to be encountered on the streets and lanes of the town during the winter months.

One winter I can recall having a mother moose and her calf (colt) camp on our front lawn for a full week. My family fed both regularly with scraps from the table, and also provided them with several loaves of bread, which they consumed with much gusto. They had been driven into the town by the unusually heavy fall of snow that winter, and the other members of the animal kingdom became quite a nuisance before they were through with scavenging the local garbage cans. Believe me, these semi-tamed creatures can become a veritable pest if at all encouraged by the residents and visitors to the community.

Pacific Northern Railway

Let It Coast—Westwood We'll Build It, Says Gore

Commercial Transport Minister Earle Westwood yesterday advised reporters to let the matter of the Pacific Northern Railway "coast for a few days."

He admitted that the company had missed the Nov. 1 deadline set by the government earlier this year as date by which the Wenner-Gren-backed railway had to let firm contracts for the clearing of the first 100 miles of right-of-way.

"But this is pretty important," said the minister. "Just let it coast for a few more days."

He said he had received no word from the PNR. Mr. Westwood said he did not want to comment on the railway at all at the present time.

"They've missed the deadline," he agreed.

"Does that mean that under the terms of your letter to the PNR earlier this year it has now been abandoned?" a reporter asked.

"No comment," said Mr. Westwood.

Meanwhile, in a telephone interview from London, the president of the PNR, Bernard Gore, said the company would go ahead with the railway.

"Wenner-Gren will build the PNR," Mr. Gore was quoted as saying.

"The B.C. government is well aware of our position," he added. "It knows there are certain legal technicalities to be cleared up. When this is done the rail line will be built."

He would not say what these legal complications were.

Evacuation Dropped For Shelter Plans

Civil defence officials have scrapped plans for mass evacuation of residents in time of nuclear attack in favor of a policy of providing fallout shelters.

"We are trying to encourage home and family fallout shelters," said John Erb, deputy co-ordinator of B.C. civil defence.

His comment followed an announcement by the U.S. that the idea of evacuating city dwellers had been abandoned for all practical purposes.

Effective Nov. 1 and until April 1 of next year, no permits are required for rubbish fires in Saanich.

As of April 1, he pointed out, residents will be required to have permits for outside fires, which may be applied for at any Saanich fire hall.

Women To See Nikita?

TORONTO (CP) — The Voice of Women organization has asked for a meeting with Premier Khrushchev in Russia Nov. 11, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Fred Davis, vice-president of VoW, said the request was made to Amasap Arounlian, Soviet ambassador to Canada. She said she expects a reply soon.

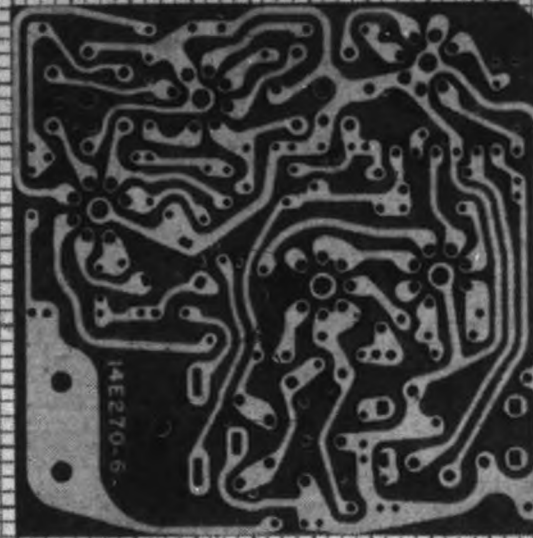

In a prepared statement, the organization said the five-member delegation would speak to the Soviet premier "as a symbol of the millions of people of all nations who would be the helpless victims of a nuclear holocaust."

Mrs. Davis said a similar five-person delegation would seek to visit U.S. President Kennedy in Washington Nov. 11 to ask "for an immediate return to the conference tables."

New Legal Steps Planned

B.C. Power in Dark on Suit

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Power Corporation, which received $111,000,000 in the provincial government takeover of the giant B.C. Electric utility, is planning new legal steps in its argument over the price.

In a letter to shareholders the former parent company of B.C. Electric said it had as yet received no reply to a Sept. 21 application to Premier Bennett's government to take the case to the courts. BCP wants the right to sue for $225,000,000 instead of the $111,000,000 it received for all B.C. common shares.

"We have had no official reply with respect to this petition," said the letter to shareholders. "The corporation is planning other legal steps and these will be reported to you in greater details when they are taken."

There was no elaboration on what form the "other legal steps" might take. The Power Development Act passed by a special session of the legislature Aug. 1 under which B.C. was taken over, provides for no appeal through arbitration or otherwise on the government's fixed price for B.C.E.

In taking over the B.C.E. the government at the same time offered BCP, a federally-incorporated company, $38 a share for BCP stock if it wanted to sell its remaining assets, estimated by the company at some $10,000,000. BCP has until July 31, 1963, to decide.

In this connection, BCP told its shareholders it had retained the New York firm of EBASCO Services Inc. to make a valuation. The company had reported that a fair value for B.C. Power common stocks as of July 31, 1961 (before the B.C.E. takeover) would range upward from $50 a share.

BCP also told its shareholders it has received legal advice that convertibility rights of Series B debentures of B.C. Electric may not have been affected by the government takeover. It planned to ask the courts to decide this.

GOLD MEDAL DESIGN

UBC Building Wins Architects a Medal

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The University of British Columbia's Thea Koerner Graduate Centre has won the Massey gold medal for the most outstanding piece of architecture completed in Canada during the past three years, it was announced last night.

The award goes to the Vancouver firm of Thompson, Berwick & Pratt, which also earned a silver medal for the Commons Block, a new UBC residence centre.

The firm's senior partner, C. E. Pratt, received the medals from Governor-General Vanier at the National Gallery in Ottawa yesterday.

The Massey medals are awarded every three years by the Massey Foundation, established by former governor-general Vincent Massey.

Thompson, Berwick & Pratt have now won seven Massey medals, three of them for UBC buildings.

Cut Underbrush Educators Told

OTTAWA (CP) — An urgent appeal came Thursday for a determined attack on the "deadwood and underbrush of outdated customs" in Canada's educational system.

The challenge was accompanied by a proposal for revision of Canada's educational administration to give the teaching profession a more powerful and responsible role.

The proposal is contained in a study paper by Dr. James M. Paton, general secretary of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec.

Dr. Paton warns that the status of the teaching profession is low and that Canada has no reason for complacency about the quality of its teachers in elementary and secondary schools.

Among the toughest problems were continued acceptance of low minimum qualifications for elementary school teaching, poor salaries in relation to other professional groups, and the lack of administrative control allowed to teachers over their own profession.

Dr. Paton suggested that the biggest obstacle in the path of higher prestige and of professional status for teachers is "the public image of a wage-earning, minor civil servant in charge of children for only 10 months of the year, to whom little freedom of action and responsibility outside of the classroom can safely be entrusted."

"This distorted image can and must be changed," he said.

TCA Names New Board Members

MONTREAL (UPI) — J. Louis Levesque of Montreal, Harry Isaac Price of Toronto and Robert Arthur Brown of Calgary have been elected to the board of directors of Trans Canada Air Lines, it was announced Thursday.

The appointments were announced by Donald Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, and TCA president G. R. McGregor. Five directors are elected by the CNR, in its capacity of sole shareholder and four are appointed by the federal government.

Indians Won't Pay Ontario Sales Tax

BRANTFORD, Ont. (UPI) — Six Nations Indians are refusing to pay the 3 per cent Ontario sales tax.

"We don't feel we have to pay any kind of tax," explained Arthur Anderson, secretary of the Iroquois confederacy. He quoted the Indian Act which exempts from taxation "the interests of an Indian in a reserve."

Six Candidates Run For Douglas' Post

REGINA (UPI) — Six candidates, all of them provincial cabinet ministers, were believed in the running for the leadership of the Saskatchewan CCF party as delegates met yesterday to choose a successor to Premier T. C. Douglas.

Douglas is retiring from provincial politics to devote his full time to the national leadership of the New Democratic Party. The new leader automatically will become premier, a post Douglas has held since the party first came to power in Saskatchewan in 1945.

Provincial treasurer W. S. Lloyd was rated the pre-convention front runner.

Lloyd, 44, was first elected to the legislature in 1944, when he was appointed minister of education. He became treasurer last year.

Balloting will take place today.

Calgary Chest Over Top On Final Day

CALGARY (CP) — A last-minute cheque for $2,000 Wednesday night put Calgary's Community Chest—Red Cross appeal over the top, right on deadline. The donation brought the appeal to $735,166 and past the objective of $724,000 in the last scheduled day of the campaign.

Sins of the Father Visited on the Son

EKATERINA FURTSEVA

Nikita's 'Other Woman'

Did She Lose Against Nina?

By WALTER STEWART
Telegram News Service

The Moscow story was brutally blunt. It said Ekaterina Furtseva, only woman member of the Communist party presidium, has been dropped from the party's ruling body.

What it meant was this: The other woman in Nikita Khrushchev's life has been downgraded.

Miss Furtseva still retains a high party post. She is now expected to concentrate on her job as culture minister.

But her place beside Nikita Khrushchev is gone.

LITTLE SUBSTANCE

There was little substance in the Moscow story to tell why Ekaterina was demoted. But Western observers can't help wondering if Nina Khrushcheva is the victor in this latest party shuffle.

Most women face possible rivalry from their husbands' job, or another woman. For Nina Khrushcheva, the two were combined in Ekaterina. Nikita's long-time friend and confidante.

Officers' GI Servants Cost $120,000 a Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government auditors said yesterday it costs some $120,000 a year to pay 25 GIs to mow lawns, cook, make beds and mix martinis for 13 military officers and a state department representative at a local fort.

The $120,000 would be the pay and allowances per year for the 25 soldiers.

The report by the general accounting office was made at the request of Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn.), a former army colonel who has waged a continuing battle against use of GIs as servants.

The auditing report said one general at Ft. McNair, in Washington, has five non-commissioned officers working for him on a full-time basis in his private quarters. Three of them are cooks and two are gardeners and handymen inside his house. The gardeners also serve meals during parties, the report said.

Kowalski maintains that army and navy regulations forbid the use of GIs as servants. All of the 25 enlisted men hold the rank of sergeant or above and are assigned permanently to the officers' quarters.

"Shaving"—can it make a whisky taste better?

"Sure it can," says Harry Hallett, our cooper. "See this piece of oak I'm shaving? That's what we call a stave, and staves fit together to make casks for the whisky to mature in. They have to fit exactly so the whisky can 'breathe' just right. If they don't, the cask is too tight and this is bad for the whisky. But my casks fit, and the whisky is properly matured."

"We're proud of Bonded Stock at Gooderham & Worts. It's very popular—has been for generations. And when you taste Bonded Stock, you'll appreciate the skill and craftsmanship that go into making it."

'Other Wife's' Taunts Added to Bill

VANCOUVER (CP)—A housewife who claims she lost her $19,000-a-year department store executive husband to another woman will receive damages in an unusual Supreme Court alienation of affections action.

Mr. Justice F. K. Collins said Thursday damages would be awarded Mrs. Genevieve Edwina Judge, formerly of Edmonton, against Mrs. Marie Isabelle Smith, in a written judgment to be delivered later.

Mrs. Judge, in the uncontested action, claimed she had been reduced to the status of a lonely, hard-pressed woman, about to lose her home for non-payment of mortgage arrears.

She said her husband and Mrs. Smith obtained Idaho state divorces from their respective spouses and remarried in that state. She sought damages for enticement of her husband and alienation of his affection.

Married in Edmonton in 1930, Mrs. Judge came to Vancouver with her husband in 1949. They had two children, both of whom are now married.

The family home, in her husband's name, is about to be foreclosed for $9,000 mortgage arrears, she said. Her only income is a monthly cheque for $128 from her husband.

Mrs. Judge told of a telephone call after her husband's Idaho marriage to Mrs. Smith. "I could hear her coaching him in the background, saying, 'Tell her to get out and work.'"

The woman said on a visit to her, the pair entered the home and Mrs. Smith walked to a photo of Mr. Judge saying: "What is this doing here? He is my husband."

"Mrs. Smith dangled the keys of our car in front of me and said the car was hers as well as the house and also said that they were not going to pay the mortgage on the house and that I would have to get out."

The witness said Mrs. Smith told her of the money they had spent on the Idaho trip. "We had a ball," Mrs. Judge quoted Mrs. Smith as saying. "Look at my tan."

Mrs. Judge continued: "They walked out holding hands, and when they got into the car she was practically sitting on his lap."

Commented Mr. Justice Collins: "Before she is finished, she will probably be standing on his neck."

"Mrs. Smith has hurt Mrs. Judge in every way one woman could hurt another."

From being the wife of a husband whose earnings were nearly $19,000 a year, she has been reduced to a woman with comparatively nothing."

Forced Fluoridation?

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland Dental Society urged Thursday that Newfoundland municipalities be forced to fluoridate their water supplies. "The profession is concerned that the teeth of thousands of children should be deprived of the benefits of fluoridation," while municipal officials fail to acquaint themselves with the benefits of this proven health measure," the society said in a brief to the royal commission on health services.

Convict Going East

MONTREAL (CP)—A two-year sentence given to Montreal bank robber George Starnino in Vancouver will be served in Montreal, the Quebec attorney-general's department announced.

Starnino, 27, convicted on a charge of armed robbery, escaped from Montreal's Boreau Jail while awaiting an appeal against a 15-year sentence. He was recaptured in Vancouver last week.

Charles E. Edouard, Quebec's deputy attorney-general, said arrangements are being made to have Starnino brought back from Vancouver as soon as possible.

After his recapture in Vancouver, he was sentenced to two years for possession of a loaded revolver and burglary tools.

Teachers To Take Cruise

Sixty high school teachers and officials from southern Vancouver Island will take a three-hour cruise aboard the destroyer escort Assiniboine in Juan de Fuca Strait Nov. 18. The program highlights education and training required by young men considering a naval career.

There Is Room For Improvement

By BERT BINNY

Highlighted by vocalists Anne Harris and Rino Elver, boy harjo player J. Van Buskirk, "Mr. Interlocutor" (Hugh Curtis), "Mr. Interrupter" (George Barr) and a most delightful skit entitled "Illit Lover," the Solarium Junior League Minstrel Show opened before a receptive audience last night.

However, such important matters as the choral work, the general tempo and even the lighting too often left a good deal to be desired.

The impression was given, for instance, that too much attention had been paid to the technical niceties of choral singing at the expense of vitality, unanimity and enthusiasm.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

We continued our river explorations on Wednesday with a boat trip on the Cowichan River to a point about a mile above the Stone Church, and it was smooth sailing all the way.

The Stone Church was as far as we went on our first Cowichan River run and we did that in our own boat and took it rather gingerly. On Wednesday we went up the river with Herman Mayne, a veteran Cowichan River fisherman who knows just about every rock, snag and bar in the river from Skuta Falls to the mouth.

We had bushwacked our way along the south bank to a point opposite the Stone Church when we met Mayne, who offered to take us up to one of his favorite trout pools.

If you want to tramp the bottom end of the Cowichan, we found that you should take to the north bank (if you have your Indian permit) by cutting over the hill by the Roman Catholic Church just beyond the Stone Church.

There is a well-trodden trail for about three-quarters of a mile along the bank. We cruised up beyond the end of the trail to a spot where an older log dips almost across the river. About 100 yards upstream is a new log jam barring the way, which the river will likely wash away when it gets a little higher.

We tied up to some bushes along the north bank. "Just past on the edge of the rifle and let your lure drift behind the bush," Mayne said.

We did just that with our Krescend spoon and hooked into a nice cutthroat on our second cast, but lost him at the boat. We hooked a small one on a Super Metric spinner, and then changed to try out some of Mayne's salmon roasts, which was working fairly well.

"I have caught some big trout in this stretch and in the winter it is good for steelhead," said Mayne.

Towards dusk some salmon started splashing around the river, but we didn't see too many.

The big search for the rainbows, which drop out of Cowichan Lake to the upper reaches of the Cowichan River, to gobble up freshly spawned salmon eggs, is on, but up until yesterday only a few rainbows had been caught in the upper reaches.

"It is time for them, but we need rain," Verna Palliser said yesterday.

Fishing is still good in Cowichan Lake. Dennis Coverdale found the steelhead high up in Harris Creek at the weekend. Prospect Lake is still fair and, up-island, the upper reaches of the Oyster and the Little lakes in the Sayward Forest are producing well. Some anglers, using worm and bobber, have been getting keeper-sized cutthroat from Hagan Creek, which runs through Woodwyn Farm at Brentwood.

Cowichan Bay is giving up some of the best coho fishing of the year and Sam Lane, who took two and lost two on Monday, reports the Kokishan ran appeared to arrive there on Monday. He found a turquoise blue bucktail and a black spinner, trolled slowly, did the trick. Others were getting them on yellow bucktails and bait. Idea seems to be to troll more slowly than usual. Red flatfish has been working in early mornings.

Net fishermen in Satellite Channel are catching numbers of big hook-nosed coho, many of them 17 and 18-pounders, which indicate there will still be some good fishing in Cowichan Bay for a week or so.

Saanich Inlet is giving up some 13 to 15-inch grilse, especially to those who use gang troll and worm, but in the past couple of days some smaller nuisance-sized grilse turned up in the inlet. Eric Goodwin has been doing well for springs and jackpings in the Bamerton-Sandy Beach waters with 200 feet minnow and two-pound trip weight. Anglers at the weekend found the winter spring circuit—Tod Inlet to Whit-taker Point, to Indian Bay and back to Tod Inlet—paid off.

Pedder Bay is providing some good winter springs—up to 16-pounds—and they are still catching coho there.

For lighters, there are a few coho in the Goldstream, but the run of chums has not yet started.

Report from Tofino yesterday was that there are quite a number of geese around, but the weather has been too good for best shooting. Reuben Parker said a southeaster was just starting to blow, which should make hunting better.

Dave Wigmore brought out the biggest Victoria Fish and Game Club buck of the year at the weekend—a 163½-pounder he shot while hunting with Konrad Samer in the Cayuse area. Samer shot a 147-pound button-winning buck the week before in the nearby Shaw Creek area.

Undeclared Chiefs Meet Army Tonight

Equimault Chiefs go for their third straight victory in the Equimault Commercial Hockey League tonight when they take on Army in the first game of the weekly double-header at Equimault Sports Centre.

Chiefs moved out in front last week when they scored twice in the last four minutes to beat Navy, 6-4. Army is tied for second place with Victoria University after being blanked 3-0 by the Students last Friday.

University takes on winless Navy in the opener at 8 p.m., followed by the Chiefs-Army battle at 9:30.

Chiefs, who started the season with a victory over University, were bolstered last week by the addition of 18-year-old Doug Couch, and now rank as the strongest team in the league.

GEORGE CHUVALO

Loss Lowers Ring Ranking For Chuvalo

NEW YORK (AP)—A defeat last month at the hands of Joe Frazier has dropped Toronto-heavyweight George Chuvalo from eighth to 10th place in the latest Ring magazine boxing ratings.

Bob Cleroux, Canadian heavyweight champion, retained his sixth place in the rankings.

Among those who moved up was former middleweight champion Ray Robinson, now ranked fourth instead of fifth in his division.

Lightweight champion Joe Brown was named "boxer of the month" for October.

Canadian Track Coaches Accused of 'Blackmail'

EDMONTON—A charge that some Canadian coaches are using "legalized blackmail" to get lesser athletes to competitions triggered a heated two-hour debate here yesterday during the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Japanese Vet Tops Tourney

TOKYO (AP)—Latsuzumi Mita, 47-year-old golf veteran, fired an even 72 par for a one-stroke lead Thursday in the opening round of a four-day international tournament.

Arnold Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., winner of the 1961 British Open, golf tournament, and four Japanese tied for second place with 73.

Gary Player of South Africa, the tournament's favorite, shot a 73 and was tied for 10th place with Japan's professional golf king, Pete Nakamura, and three others.

Owners Put Up Most of Biggest Purse

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Someone remarked the other day that for $181,419, he'd enter the Garden State Stakes himself if he thought he could make 1 1/16 miles on all fours. Which brings to the fore the real attraction of this annual fall gallop at Garden State Park for two-year-olds.

CLOSE IS GOOD When the leaders—second, third and fourth finishers—go home with enough to keep hay in the barn for many a day. And this brings up the question: Where does all the loot come from?

Well, let's take this year's ninth run for gold, in which pre-race odds indicate either Verne Winchell's Donut King or Peter Salmen's Crimson Sain will lead home an expected field of 12.

Garden State starts the money rolling with a $125,000 contribution. Then they turn it over to the horse owners. Originally, in August, last year 749 horses were nominated at $15 each, for a total of $11,235. On or before Dec. 15, another 178 were named at a cost of $33 each, adding up to $5,904. A total of $17,139. Then, if you discover you have a likely Garden State entry, it costs $10,000 to become a supplementary entry. El Peco's ranch was one of these.

IT FILES UP By March 15, in order to keep eligible, 509 of the 277 nominees forked over $100 each—$50,900 in all. Four months later, 300 of these dumped in another $250 each, a total of $75,000. Then, if you discover you have a likely Garden State entry, it costs $10,000 to become a supplementary entry. El Peco's ranch was one of these.

No O.C. Entry LONDON (AP)—Trainer Jack Gosden said Thursday High Perth, only British entry in the International race Nov. 11 at Laurel, Md., has developed a cough and will not run.

This morning it costs each owner $1,000 to enter, and if his horse actually comes out of the gate Saturday he digs for another $1,000. With 12 starters this would be another $24,000. Here's what you get: $302,365. The winner takes down $181,419; second place earns $60,473; third pockets $30,236, and fourth gets $15,118. An additional $15,118 is paid in breeder awards to the top four finishers.

Most of the probable starters were on the track Thursday for workouts. Donut King, to be ridden by Donald Pierce, went half a mile in 48, Walnut Farm's Su Ka Wa and Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Green Ticket worked the same distance, both in 48.

Others expected to start are Philly, Godfrey's Stinson Beach, the Arnold Winick trained entry of R. F. Bensinger's Pinsetter and Mrs. Herbert H. Herff's Obey, Elkcam Stable's Padded Cell, R. S. Howard and Dave Saway's Nijon, Golden Triangle Stable's Point Park, and Brookfield Farm's In Peron.

Roller Skating At Youth Rally Roller skating will be featured at a youth rally at 7 p.m. Saturday in Port Renfrew Community Hall.

The rally, for children from 8 to 14 years old, will be sponsored by the United Church. On Sunday there will be Bible class for youngsters 10 to 14 at 11 a.m. in the hall, and a worship service at 2 p.m.

Garden Notes

Not Too Hot Inside!

By M.V. CHESNUT, FRHS

An old friend of mine has just moved into a house which has quite a good-sized glassed-in porch—it has a lovely wide ledge around all three sides under the windows—and he told me he is looking forward to starting all kinds of seeds there early next spring.

"I sure wish there was something I could grow in it through the winter, though," he said. "But of course, that's impossible, there isn't any way of heating it."

How wrong he was! It is the easiest thing in the world to keep an unheated sunporch filled with color and fragrance all through the winter months, and that goes for the unheated greenhouse and conservatory too. All you have to do is select plants which have a normal habit of blooming outdoors in winter or very early spring. There is a surprisingly large number of such winter-blooming plants and they'll perform twice as well with their delicate flowers protected by glass from the ravages of wind, rain, soot and snow. Take the winter-flowering bulbs, for instance. Snowdrops, crocuses, snowflakes, erantis, chionodoxa and the tiny Angel's Tears narcissus all do well under glass without any artificial heat at all—in fact, most of the little bulbs will stage a sit-down strike if you attempt to push them ahead too fast with warmth. Even our wild Dog's Tooth violet or Trout Lily puts on a good show potted up in February when the first shoots are just peeping through the soil surface.

Another source of color and fragrance for the unheated sunporch can be found among the spring-flowering bedding plants. Wallflowers of the dwarf kind, polyanthus primroses and forget-me-nots all bloom earlier with fresher, cleaner blooms under glass. Primula denticulata, the Drumstick primrose, is a honey for this purpose, with stiff stems and globular flowers, while the tiny, low-growing primula Wanda is perfectly at home under glass as long as she isn't pampered with extra warmth.

No particular skill or attention is required to transfer these plants from the open garden to the sunporch. Compact, bushy specimens should be selected and should be dug up with a good ball of soil around the roots. The best way to do this is to cut all the way around the plant with a sharp hand trowel, then lever out the lump of soil bodily, along with the plant.

Pot them firmly into suitable sized pots, first trimming off any long, straggling roots from the primroses. Most of these subjects will require a four or five-inch pot to itself, but the forget-me-nots will make the best show if they are potted three together in a five-inch pot.

After one good watering to settle the soil around the roots, go very easy on the water thereafter and err, if at all, on the side of dryness. Ventilation must be given freely, particularly on sunny days, for these plants are essentially hardy, and they demonstrate their resentment to too much warmth and coddling by becoming weak and spindly.

Lily-of-the-valley is another subject that lends itself cheerfully to the cold glass treatment, but like forced rhubarb, it must be allowed its touch of frost outdoors before potting up and bring under cover.

Grave Robbers Scorn Fakes

By ART BUCHWALD

New York Herald Tribune

ROME—We interviewed a genuine Etruscan grave robber the other day. We shall call him Paolo. He claims he is the chief of all grave robbers in the town of Cerveteri where the best Etruscan grave can be robbed.

Paolo does not shy away from publicity. "Publicity is good," he said, "because then my clients will realize I'm dealing with the genuine merchandise."

A handsome chap in his early twenties, Paolo even offered to give us a photo of himself so it would make it easier for tourists to find him.

"We grave robbers are victims of unfair business practices," he said. "The black market is full of phony grave robbers selling scandalous imitations of Etruscan masterpieces. Take this little vase here. It's beautiful, but 80 per cent of the items found in Etruscan tombs are obscene, so the non-obscene items have much more value. But the idiot tourist thinks that because they are obscene they are more valuable. Therefore, the people who make the fake Etruscan art specialize in obscene items, so instead of 80 per cent of all Etruscan art being obscene, 120 per cent is obscene which is entirely too much and gives serious grave robbers a bad name."

Naturally, Paolo is violating the law by robbing Etruscan graves, since they belong to the state, but the people of Cerveteri feel anything they find on their land belongs to them. It is this feeling that sent Paolo to jail for 18 months not long ago.

The trade mark of an Etruscan grave robber are the calluses and the easiest way to spot a phony grave robber is to ask to see his hands. Cerveteri, Paolo insisted, was the home of authentic Etruscan objects. "The fakes," he said, "are made in the south of Italy near Taranto. In order to get a better price the imitators may buy an original piece of art six inches high and copy it two feet high. Then he will destroy the original so no one will know about it."

But isn't that immoral, to destroy the original? We asked Paolo.

"We would have to agree on the definition of immorality," Paolo said. "Besides the Etruscans were pretty immoral in a sense—you should see some of the stuff we find."

Paolo said he thought the government was wrong in taking what belonged to the people. "The Etruscans left no will as far as we grave robbers are concerned."

The grave robbers of Cerveteri learn their trade while digging for Italian archaeologists for as little as $1 a day. Once they found out how to discover the Etruscan tombs they went in business for themselves. Apparently Cerveteri was a great burial place. What makes Cerveteri one of the busiest places in Italy is that the archaeologists dig in the daytime and grave robbers dig at night.

"The traffic around here is nerve-racking," Paolo said. "Even the King of Sweden was digging around here. We got into a lot of trouble because of him."

How's that? We asked. "He found a tomb and they made a hole and photographed the contents which had marvelous things in it. But the King made a big mistake."

"He decided to wait until the next day to actually open the tomb. That is to find the door and dig the earth out. He went back to Rome to invite his family and government officials to Cerveteri to watch him dig out the tomb."

"Someone opened the tomb during the night and the next morning there was very little left for the King of Sweden. Since then the police have been very mad at all of us and have made life harder."

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

Lana's Kicks Shocked Star

ROME (NANA)—From Elsa Martinelli, starring in "The Niece That Took Rome": "I used to hate Hollywood. It's a very difficult place for a young, unmarried girl. The wives are afraid to invite you to their dinner parties. I once sat on one side of Lex Barker with Lana Turner (when they were married) on the other. Every time Lex talked to me, Lana kicked him under the table."

From Roberto Rossellini comes the statement that Italians have fewer psychological problems than almost any other nationality. It's true. When they are happy, they sing and laugh. When angry, they yell. Nothing is left to boil and fester in the mind.

This is a sweet story. Seven-year-old Johnny Pepper, son of Newsweek's European chief, Bill Pepper, plays Caesar's son in "Cleopatra." When he saw how shaky mama Cleopatra was when they climbed the 30-foot sphinx on which they enter Rome for the first time, Johnny said reassuringly, "Don't worry." Elizabeth Taylor forgot her fear long enough to laugh and say, "Look, you look after your skin; I'll look after mine."

If you ask ace director Federico Fellini "What do you think was your best film?" he will not reply "La Dolce Vita" or even "La Strada," which I liked better. His best picture, he considers, is one he made when he was practically unknown, in 1953, "Vitelloni"—the little bulls. A lot of people here agree. I'm sure many others would like to see it.

Seventeen-year-old Christine Kaufman, working with Stewart Granger in "Swordsmen of Sienna," is called the "Shirley Temple of Germany." Christine, with 27 movies behind her, is en route to Argentina to play a top role with Yul Brynner and Tony Curtis in "Taras Bulba."

Claudia Cardinale, the girl Brigitte Bardot named as her sexy cinema successor, jumped in one year from obscurity to an asking price of $175,000 per movie, according to producer Sam Jaffe—who told me that he wanted Claudia for "The Kimona." She is now co-starring with Tony Franciosa in "As a Man Grows Older," which is called "Senilità" here. They'll have to change that title.

Director Andre de Toth is commuting between his home in Lausanne, Switzerland, and Rome, where he is filming "The Blue Hussar." This is one of the lesser-known Tolstoy stories.

With everyone coming to Rome, producer Joe Levine is off to Japan and Hollywood. He's making a movie in each locale—the Kim Novak-Tony Randall-Howard Duff, "Boys Night Out" in Hollywood, and a non-titled-as-yet picture in Tokyo.

The Eddie Robinsons and the Tony Martins had a private audience with the Pope. Tony told me about the man in the Turkish baths in the hotel. "He has been there for 50 years, and has rubbed the last eight American ambassadors."

'Some' Senate Reform Coming Next Session

(Special to the Colonist)

OTTAWA — Some measure of Senate reform will be introduced at the next session of Parliament, Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated yesterday in a wide-ranging hour-long press conference.

Parliament would also be asked to consider action on "some" of the recommendations of the O'Leary royal commission on the magazine industry.

Canadian Ambassador Arnold Heeney would be retired from Washington "very shortly" and the prime minister made it clear that a successor had been decided upon.

On the question of redistribution the prime minister declined to state flatly that legislation would be brought forward at the next session on that subject. He pointed out that the census figures might not be available in time to allow such legislation to be introduced.

NEW SENATORS

He announced new senators would be appointed soon to fill the vacancies in the Upper House. There are three vacancies, one in Nova Scotia and two in Ontario.

He fenced with reporters on the question of the date for calling the next session and the possible date for the next general election. On another subject he said action would have to be taken in six, eight or 10 months and correspondents seized on this as a clue to the coming election date, but he laughed off their query with the comment that they were always seeking clues to the coming election date.

The prime minister was quite firm on his declaration for Senate reform but did not elaborate. There have been suggestions that a retirement age of 75 might be imposed on senators. This would affect more than 30 senators of which only three would be Conservatives, the others Liberal.

HOT ISSUE

The issue of Senate reform became a hot one at the last session when the upper house defied the Conservative government majority in the Com-government bill to fire him from his high post.

The prime minister answered a wide variety of questions and turned several aside when they dealt with highly controversial subjects. Replies were the following:

● He was in no position to announce the date of the next session and would not be for "some little time." Before making the announcement he wished to discuss it with Opposition Leader Lester Pearson.

● A careful examination of the regulations under the Immigration Act is being made. There will be changes which to a certain extent "determine the application of the immigration law." In addition there may be a revamping of the act at the next session.

● On the question of a "distinctive" Canadian flag Mr. Diefenbaker replied, "We have a Canadian flag." He was asked if he had promised a new flag during the election. "I at no time discussed that directly. I said that we should endeavor to establish our identity in every way. We are doing that with the repatriation of our constitution."

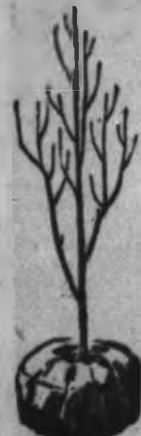

mons on two occasions. The first was when the Senate Liberal majority insisted on the right of appeal to the tariff board being retained in customs tariff legislation. The second was when the Senate undertook to give James Coyne, then governor of the Bank of Canada, a hearing after the Commons had flatly refused to allow him to have his say before a committee during consideration of a

High School Teachers Will Get $600 Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—The majority of Vancouver's 1,235 elementary school teachers have settled for no wage increases in 1962. However, teachers with secondary certificates will have their maximum salaries boosted $600 to conform with maximums paid secondary school teachers, said Vancouver school board salary negotiator Orville Hayes.

Power Lacking

Corporation Chief Quits in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Roland Chagnon resigned Thursday night as chairman of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation, a post he held since the corporation came into being by act of the Quebec legislature in 1959. The MMC succeeded the old Montreal Metropolitan Commission.

Mr. Chagnon, 61, is a prominent Montreal chartered accountant.

His resignation was believed to stem from the lack of power of the MMC. He has maintained consistently that the corporation must be a progressive organization armed with powers of execution as well as study, otherwise it had no justification for existence.

Under its present charter, the MMC has little authority beyond studying metropolitan problems.

Anglicans Reject Formula

LONDON (Reuters)—Thirty-two leading Anglican theologians yesterday called for a more liberal policy by the Church of England on inter-communication between denominations to foster church unity.

The call came in an open letter to the archbishops of Canterbury and York, all Anglican bishops and leaders of other denominations.

The theologians rejected the formula for intercommunion put forward at the Lambeth Conference in 1958 as the generally-held Anglican view. They asked that individual baptized members of churches not in communion with the Church of England should be welcomed to communion on occasions apart from those when they are cut off by distance from their own churches. They said provision should be made to extend and safeguard the right of Anglicans to communicate at non-Anglican services.

He Was Kinky, But He Loved Me

Ex-City Call Girl Says Husband Sacrificed Life for Her

Special to The Colonist
VANCOUVER — "He loved me so much he was willing to die for me."

Red-haired Dawn Adams, convicted Victoria bawdy house keeper, used those words Wednesday to describe her 34-year-old lawyer husband, Edward Rogers, who took an overdose of sleeping pills after unsuccessfully defending her on the charge in a Victoria court.

Paddling around her apartment in black leotards and stroking a Siamese cat, Mrs. Rogers—charged under her former name of Dawn Adams—said her husband had "kinky moods."

She said a few weeks ago he went to the police after trying to kill her. He told them she was wanted in Victoria for skipping bail on a two-year-old bawdy house charge. That night he had cut up $1,000 worth of her clothes with a razor blade, later saying he didn't remember.

"I knew he was in one of his kinky moods," she said.

After her husband's suicide she was given a suspended sentence on the bawdy house charge and fined $300 for skipping bail.

Mrs. Rogers said she will scatter her husband's ashes over English Bay.

"He died for me, not because of me," she said. "You don't know how I loved him. He was the first man I really loved. He loved me so much he was willing to sacrifice his life for me."

"Our happiest memories were swimming, skiing and picnicking at the sea. The least I can do is put him to rest in the waters he loved so well."

"They say I am a call girl. I cannot live with that name. I am a good girl. I was a good wife."

She may go back to her native England to forget.

Leper Colony Adoption By Canada Suggested

TORONTO (CP)—Adoption of an overseas leper colony as part of Canada's 1967 centennial celebrations was urged Wednesday by The Catholic Women's League of Canada at its annual convention here.

The league also voted to ask the federal government for increased financial aid to a close watch on such public teachers and students willing to live in other countries and use their training to advance social welfare conditions there.

The delegates expressed concern about what was described as suggestive and obscene material used in some university student publications. Provincial and diocesan leagues councils were asked to keep a close watch on such publications.

Marine Union Bids For Great Lakes Men

OTTAWA (CP)—A new marine engineers' union, founded this summer at meetings in halls of the Independent Seafarers International Union of Canada, made its formal bid yesterday to enter the Great Lakes labor scene.

The newly-created National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association of Canada went before the Canada Labor Relations Board for certification as bargaining agent for 173 licensed engineers employed by seven shipping firms.

The Canadian union was set up in July under a charter from the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association of the United States, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO. The SIU in the U.S. is also affiliated with the AFL-CIO, but its Canadian wing has been expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress.

The NMEBA application was opposed by the National Association of Marine Engineers Inc. (Great Lakes and Eastern District), which successfully fought off the SIU in a recent certification battle over marine engineers on six of the seven companies.

JUDGMENT LATER
In yesterday's case, the board reserved decision and will make its judgment known later.

Claiming majority support from the engineers, John McCusig, Thorold, Ont., president-business manager of the new engineers' union, contended the N.A.M.E. did not represent the "men on the job."

He said he carried a mandate from marine engineers to settle the turbulent situation caused by four unions in their field.

"I'm fed up," said Mr. McCusig. "We're the fourth body in this arrangement. If the NMEBA is given a chance, it would soon get all the engineers under one roof."

This was a question that also interested the labor relations board. Board chairman C. Rhodes Smith said the board wanted to be sure that the new union is independent.

Defence Asks Paton-Cox Acquittals

BRANDON (CP)—The defence asked for a number of directed acquittals Thursday at the conspiracy, fraud and theft trial of Toronto businessmen Hugh Paton and D. Herbert Cox.

They were made by Winnipeg lawyers Harry Walsh, appearing for Paton, and Henry Monk, appearing for Cox.

The hearing adjourned until today when Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin may make his ruling on the applications.

With the jury excluded Mr. Walsh moved for a directed verdict of acquittal on a charge of knowingly issuing a false prospectus.

Mr. Walsh also asked the court to quash two charges accusing the two men of conspiracy to steal from and defraud Brandon Packers.

Oil Growth Exports Restrained

CALGARY (CP)—Only one-quarter of the growth in Canadian crude oil production this year has been competing in the United States with domestic production, Calgary oilman Carl O. Nickle said Thursday.

Of a 153,000-barrel-a-day increase in Canadian crude production during the first half of 1961, about one-third found its way to Canadian refineries. Another 40 per cent was absorbed in the Puget Sound area of the U.S. Pacific Northwest, previously served by overseas oil.

Oakalla Fugitive Nabbed Same Day

BURNABY (CP)—Police late yesterday recaptured an Oakalla prisoner who fled after leaving a work party earlier in the day.
Seventeen-year-old Robert Allen gave up without a struggle after climbing a fence and fleeing into bushland.
He was sentenced to the prison last month for possession of an offensive weapon.

Tax Trial Clogged

Trial of Henry Eng, operator of the Oakalla supermarket, 3475 Quadra, on six charges of falsification of income tax returns, made scant progress in Saanich police court yesterday in the absence of senior defence counsel W. H. M. Hal-dane.

Yesterday's session heard of 27 witnesses have been heard—but not cross-examined—and only a handful of a mountain of evidence examined in the case has been introduced.
Patrick Bennett is acting for the minister of national revenue. The case will continue at 3 p.m. today.

What Makes Arsonist Tick?

By TED PULFORD
What sort of a man has cast the long shadow of fire terror across Cecelia Road?

Is he a true pyromaniac who sets blazes just for the psychotic joy it brings him? Is he a hate-filled creature who has declared war on society and just happened to choose Cecelia for a place to start?

Or—most frightening of all possibilities—is he a known resident of the neighborhood who seems bent upon destroying?

The people on Cecelia Road, who have watched this man's repeated attempts at destruction with mounting anxiety, tend to favor this last theory.

WILD PATTERN

A wild pattern began to form shortly after the first arson attempt on Aug. 7 of this year—a pattern which terrified Cecelia Road residents watched evolve through several fires, threats against children and strange noises in the dead of night.

Here, as accurately as possible, under the circumstances, is a glimpse of the man behind the shadow:

He lives—or has lived—in the neighborhood for long enough to know every foot of the terrain. He is apparently able to crawl back yards, alleys and sheds almost under the eyes of the police. Cecelia Road residents say no stranger could have eluded them this long.

MYSTERY ARSONIST

The mystery arsonist is clearly an agile person. In one attempted shed burning, he took an armload of dried grass cuttings from one yard, lifted it over two fences and deposited it carefully against the building he planned to burn.

Alert residents spotted the smoke, and the attempt was foiled; however, police next day were able to pick the man's twisting trail by the cuttings he dropped along the way.

It appears, too, that the pyromaniac stalking Cecelia Road is no haphazard burner of buildings. He has chosen for his targets the oldest, most run-down structures.

NOT BAPHAZARD

From this, they deduce he is moved by some twisted "mission" to destroy the ugliness of his neighborhood. In many cases he has struck on a Saturday night.

Breakfast Club Formed

A Kiwanis "Breakfast Club" was formed in Victoria last night.

Thirty-five attended the dinner meeting in the Tally-Ho dining room at which a slate of officers for the new club was named. It is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Victoria.

President is O. B. Taylor. Robert Montgomery and William Walker are vice-presidents and John Neils is the treasurer.

Safety Session

Duncan Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring local "lights-bike" campaign as traffic safety measure this year with free application of reflective tape to 100 bikes at North Cowichan fire hall at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Joyce Roger Hilliard points out safety device applied to bike of 10-year-old Patricia Sharp as Cpl. Hockstader looks on approvingly. (Worsley Studio Photo.)

Ship Drops Propeller

NANAIMO—A 10,000-ton Liberty ship dropped her propeller off Esquimalt Island here early yesterday. Tugs were called and they towed the ship to drydock in Vancouver.

Island Free of Red Tide

Green Light to Diggers

The federal fisheries department has re-opened all areas on Vancouver Island for clam digging.

Red tide conditions of 1957 brought the danger of food poisoning to those who ate shellfish from some Vancouver Island waters, especially in the middle north of the island. In 1957 there were a number of cases of food poisoning after a feast of shellfish.

For some time a ban was placed on gathering of all shellfish, and this has been gradually lifted until recently only the taking of butter clams in the Courtenay and Campbell River areas was prohibited for health purposes.

A new order lifts the closure on Areas 13, 14 and 15, which means the whole island is free of the red tide menace.

Harrison Considering Scrap for Old Seat

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Victoria's civic election picture changed abruptly yesterday with former mayor Claude Harrison announcing he is considering seeking the mayoralty again.

And a court hearing which began in city police court this week could disqualify W. A. Scott, the only person who has so far definitely announced he will contest the mayoralty.

Mayor Percy Scourrah has consistently refused to commit himself on whether or not he will seek a further term, but unofficially his candidacy is considered a foregone conclusion.

"I have been asked by several to run and I have been thinking it over," ex-mayor Harrison said. He was mayor of Victoria for two terms — from 1951 to 1955 — and was defeated by Mayor Scourrah.

"I think something has got to be done for Victoria," he continued. "It seems to me we are not progressing the way we should."

"I was spoken to several times last week and asked to run. It is a big sacrifice in a way, and yet on the other hand, something has to be done."

"Victoria is in an unsatisfactory state. Everything seems so uncertain."

"The coming couple of years are going to be a very rough term for the mayor."

Mr. Scott is involved in a trial which will resume in city police court this morning. Charges and countercharges of assault causing bodily harm have been laid by Mr. Scott and William Arthur Brown, 1140 Government Street.

DISQUALIFICATION
If Mr. Scott is convicted he will automatically be disqualified from seeking civic office for five years under the terms of the Municipal Act.

A Youthful Peek at Berlin

COURTENAY—Not many 19-year-olds are able to boast they have been behind the Iron Curtain but one local youth, Bruce Watson, will have some interesting tales to tell when he gets back from a European trip this spring.

Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Watson of Royston, is in Europe working and thumbing his way through the Old World. His expedition to West Germany resulted in a sidetrip to East Berlin which opened the eyes of the youth who was brought up in the quiet atmosphere in the Comox Valley.

In a letter to his parents he writes that he and his companions, three Canadians including two from Victoria, didn't know quite what to expect. "The East German and Russian guards looked mean with their Tommy guns."

Islander Gets Eyeful

His stay in Europe included many stops in old castles now serving as youth hostels.

It was when in one of these that he really felt right in the midst of atmosphere of a divided Germany.

The hostel, an old mansion, was right at the tip of the West German zone.

"Everywhere we looked was Russian territory. The concrete and wire fence of the hostel was the Russian border," he wrote.

At night he saw Red police with flashlights searching for escapees in the woods.

On the nearby canal a boat swept its floodlight around the area. Once the beam crossed the youths, who were tempted to go wading. "Don't," they were warned, it might mean a shower of bullets.

The next day Bruce crossed the border into East Berlin. Many of the soldiers were young, 17 and 16. "It was like a regular Hitler Youth Movement," he wrote.

East Berlin was drab but well lit. Packaging of food was amateurish and there was little real advertising of the plain goods seen in the stores.

Baking for Bazaar Calls for Ideas

"Follow that recipe carefully, use only the finest ingredients, and bake everything in foil pans." These are a few tips from an expert bazaar cook willing to share his baking secrets. And since bazaars and bake sales are on the upswing all across the country this month, many are eager for ideas on this popular theme.

Here are three original recipes to tempt bazaar buyers:

RAISIN STREUSEL PIE

A streusel dessert, with its attractive crisp topping, will be a sure success at your bazaar or bake sale, especially if it's this Raisin Streusel Pie. The spicy custard filling is quite easy to prepare, thanks to dairy sour cream, and its butter-crumble topping is delightful. On the day of the bazaar you might attach a note to this contribution, suggesting it be served warm.

RAISIN STREUSEL PIE

(Makes One 9-Inch Pie)
One unbaked 9-inch pie shell,
2 eggs, ¼ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup dairy sour cream, 1 cup seedless raisins, ¼ cup soft butter, ¼ cup all-purpose flour, ½ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, ½ cup rolled oats.

Preheat oven to 425°F. Beat eggs slightly; beat in sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add and mix in sour cream and raisins. Turn into prepared pie shell. Bake in preheated oven 15 minutes. Meanwhile, cream butter; blend in flour, brown sugar and rolled oats. Spread topping evenly over partially baked pie. Reduce oven temperature to 350°F, and continue to bake 20 minutes longer.

LEMON BUTTER CAKELETTES

Instead of one large butter cake, why not bake several of these small cakelettes for your bazaar. Customers will find them light and tender, with a pleasant fresh lemon tang. And their size (just enough for two) should prove mighty popular too.

LEMON BUTTER CAKELETTES

(Makes 6 Cakelettes)

Two cups sifted cake flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup soft butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 2 eggs, ¼ cup milk.

Butter six aluminum foil baking cups (about 3 inches in diameter). Preheat oven to 375°F. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter; gradually beat in sugar. Beat in vanilla and lemon rind. Add eggs, one at a time, beating in well after each addition. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, combining lightly after each addition. Turn batter into prepared pans. Bake in preheated oven 15 to 20 minutes. Cool completely in pans on cake rack. Frost with the following Creamy Lemon Icing. Decorate with coconut.

CREAMY LEMON ICING

Makes Sufficient Icing for 6 Cakelettes

Quarter cup soft butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2½ cups sifted icing sugar, 2 tablespoons (about) milk.

Cream butter; beat in vanilla and lemon rind. Gradually blend in icing sugar. Beat in sufficient milk to make an icing of spreading consistency.

APRICOT-ALMOND BARS

These butter-rich, fruited bars are composed of two layers—a tender shortbread base, and an apricot-almond layer. The baked result: mmmm!—chewy, buttery and quite colorful. In other words, an excellent bazaar recipe!

APRICOT-ALMOND BARS

(Makes 2 Dozen Bars)

One cup dried apricots, ¼ cup soft butter, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 eggs, 1 cup lightly-packed brown sugar, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup chopped almonds.

Rinse apricots; cover with water in saucepan. Bring to the boil and boil gently 10 minutes. Drain, cool and chop.

Preheat oven to 325°F. Cream butter; blend in granulated sugar and 1 cup of the flour. Divide mixture in half. Press into two foil pans (5½ x 8½ inches). Bake in preheated oven 20 minutes. Meantime, beat eggs well; gradually beat in brown sugar. Stir in the remaining ½ cup flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in vanilla, almonds and apricots. Spread over baked layer and return to oven. Bake until set—about 30 minutes. Cool completely in pans, then cut each pan into 1 dozen bars.

B.C. REGISTERED MUSIC TEACHERS

New teaching in Ten Mile Point. Have vacancies for piano, electric organ and piano accordion. All string and brass instruments. Q5 1-4255

A successful bazaar or bake sale needs novel ideas, and shown here are raisin-streusel pie, apricot-almond bars and lemon butter cakelettes—all baked in foil pans for convenience.

Notes From Fulford

FULFORD—Mrs. G. Ruckle of Beaver Point has recently returned from a visit to Vancouver where she attended the fall graduation, at which her son, G. Henry Ruckle, received his BA diploma at the University of B.C.

Mrs. Ruckle was the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bullock at North Vancouver, during her stay.

Visiting Miss Helen Ruckle in Victoria last week-end were Mrs. H. Ruckle Sr. and Miss Nan Ruckle, Beaver Point.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our 17-year-old son turned up at breakfast this morning with a henna rinse. He is a natural blonde and this red hair job makes him look like a freak. His father and I are sick over it.

He told us his girl friend did it just to see how it would look. She liked it and made him promise to leave it that way. He said he didn't think the color of a person's hair was very important.

My first impulse was to go over to the girl's house and tear her blonde hair out by the black roots. My husband said to calm down and write to you for advice. What kind of an idiot girl would do such a thing. Please hurry your reply and tell us what to do. JUST FURIOUS.

Dear Just: And what kind of an idiot boy would allow a girl to tint his hair? Relax folks, a henna rinse will wash out—as you have probably discovered by now.

Make it plain to your son that you'll tolerate no more nonsense—and be firm. He needs parental direction.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't tell me I'm a fool. I know this already. Just tell me what to do.

Last week I sprained my ankle on my way home from work. This fellow I've been going with for five years asked me how it happened. When I told him I stepped off the curb wrong he said "You must have been loaded."

He knows good and well that I never touch liquor, in fact his nickname for me is "Blue-Nose." The more I tried to explain the more he insisted I was drunk. I became very annoyed and told him not to call me again.

The problem is he owes me $1,100. I'm afraid he'll use this as an excuse not to pay me. I've invested five good years in him and he promised to marry me when his boss retires. Wouldn't I be a fool to give him this perfect out?

There is no other man in sight, Ann. Please rush the advice.—FBN.

Dear FBN: What makes you think this man is "in sight"? Write off the $1,100 as tuition in the School of Experience and get back into circulation. After five years you've had the post-graduate course.

Dear Ann: In December my wife's parents moved to this city within four blocks of us—and next door to another daughter. My father-in-law is not employed. He roams around telling everyone he is retired. The truth is he has never had much of a job. His wife works part-time and always has.

My in-laws used to alternate between us and their other daughter—dropping in for dinner and then spending the evening. My brother-in-law got so fed up he asked his company for a transfer to another town. Now we have them every night and I'm ready to flip.

These in-laws are in their early 50s, in good health and have joined a church. There's no reason why they can't have friends their own age. My wife does not encourage them nor is she the dependent type. In fact she asked me to write for advice.—TOM.

Dear Tom: Your wife is there. I'm here. I can't tell her parents to leave you alone and make a social life of their own. Your wife can—and she should. Now.

With the aid of these "cooking" fathers, how can the bazaar being held today at Norfolk House School for Girls, possibly fall? The Fathers' Stall is always a major attraction at this annual event, especially when they shoot, cook and prepare their own produce. Working at it are Mr. Herb Brown, Mrs. J. Fitzpatrick Dunn and Mr. Monty Drake. Golden Labrador Prince has a stake in this too — he retrieved the bird. The bazaar begins at 2 p.m. at the school and is convened by Mrs. G. O. Heisterman. Miss Winnifred Scott, headmistress, will receive guests. There are a great variety of stalls, and many games both for adults and children. (Photo by Bud Kinman.)

PERSONAL MENTION

Moore-Greenslade Vows In St. John's Church

The marriage of Margaret Greenslade to Mr. Peter Moore recently was the first to be solemnized in the re-opened St. John's Church. Canon T. W. Scott officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Greenslade of West Summerland, B.C. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Moore of North Bay, Ont. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in traditional formal gown of white tulle with long sleeves and scalloped neckline. It was trimmed with white lace on bodice and cascading down the skirt with a train of white tulle.

She wore a shoulder length veil of white net and a headpiece of matching tulle shimmering with embroidery. She carried a cascade of pink and white roses and a necklace of white and blue rhinestones. Matron-of-honor was bride's sister Miss Katherine Greenslade and bridesmaid was Miss Gloria Mobley. Both girls wore pale green dresses of net sprinkled with silver. They were short sleeved with scalloped neckline to complement the bride's dress and had matching green gloves and shoes. They carried cascade bouquets of pink and mauve chrysanthemums.

Best man was Mr. Edward York and ushers were Mr. Dirk Van Ek and Mr. Donald Marshall, both of Victoria. At the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robin, toast to the bride was given by Mr. R. F. Hood of Victoria. For a honeymoon trip by jet to North Bay, Ont. the bride changed into a turquoise wool suit with pink accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will live at North Bay.

Fashions

The new shape in boy's hats is the Swiss lid—a dress up hat with flat-topped crown that slopes from a rounded point in front, downward to a tight-curli back brim.

Designers have extended a carte blanche on fabrics for rainwear this season. Rugged wide wale corduroys, poplins and suede take the lead as favorites among the young set. Cotton knits have been laminated to foam for warmth with lightness.

A shift from front and centre to front and left is the fashionable move for buttons and button holes.

Good Shepherd Shelter Christmas Sale Nov. 4

In aid of the Good Shepherd animal welfare work, a Christmas sale of useful articles and attractive and unique Christmas novelties made by the sisters at St. Mary's Priory will be held in the canteen of the Glenahol Hotel, 608 Douglas, on Saturday, Nov. 4, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Afternoon tea will be served in the Thistle Room. A Christmas turkey and cake will be raffled and there will be door prizes.

The Good Shepherd Shelter, 4151 Borden, under the care of the Sisters of the Love of Jesus, was officially opened early last September. Since then all available accommodation has been used to capacity, and further expansion is being planned.

The policy of the shelter is that no animal in trouble is refused admittance, so long as there is a corner. Some are eventually passed on to good homes, others will remain at the shelter for the rest of their lives, due to the fact that they have been so badly trained that their trust in humans has been completely destroyed. All who enter have a home for life, and may return if adopted homes prove unsuitable.

The average number of dogs at the shelter is around 30.

Are Future Jaycee Exhibitions Threatened by Land Purchase?

Andy Capp

Island Booth at Century 21

Treasure Theme

The theme of "Canada's Treasure Island" will dominate a booth to be operated in Vancouver Island's behalf at next year's Century 21 World's Fair in Seattle.

Announcing the decision yesterday, tourist commissioner William Hawkins said location of the Island booth is "one of the very best obtainable."

It will be set up on a key corner along the Boulevard of Nations.

Decision to operate the booth was taken by a meeting of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau directors at Campbell River recently.

Following a visit to the exhibition site, Mr. Hawkins agreed with Seattle officials estimates that 10,000,000 visitors will pour through the gates during the year.

"So far," he said, "some 35 foreign countries have rented exhibition space and there is no more left."

The Canadian Government, he added, has taken more than 11,000 feet of space not far away from the Treasure Island booth.

The Island booth, he promised, will be staffed with four "knowledgeable and personable" young women.

Halloween Tins Opened On Sunday

Collection tins carried by 4,600 Vancouver Island Sunday school children in a Halloween drive to raise money for Save the Children Fund will be opened Sunday.

Campaign was aimed at raising $4,500 for establishment of a second beggar boys' home in Pusan, Korea.

Victoria representative of the fund, Mrs. W. W. McGill, was hopeful the drive would exceed its objective.

City Council Handed $1,000,000 Problem

City council has been handed a $1,000,000 problem that could drive the annual Jaycee exhibition from Memorial Arena and possibly Victoria.

Victoria Curling Club wants to buy all city-owned land behind Memorial Arena for a planned $1,000,000 expansion, city manager C. C. Wyatt told city finance committee yesterday.

The area is used by the annual Jaycee exhibition for concession stands, agricultural buildings and exhibits, side-shows and midway rides.

WARNS COMMITTEE

City assessor Alfred Joyce warned the committee yesterday sale of the land to the curling club could make it impossible for the exhibition to be held at the site.

Mr. Wyatt told the committee that council could expect to gain $220,000 from sale of the land, but pointed out it would eliminate possibility of using the land for off-street arena parking.

PROBLEM REFERRED

Committee referred the whole problem to city council for decision. Mr. Wyatt was asked to find out cost of closing off Pembroke Street between Quadra and Blanshard and buying properties along Pembroke Street for construction of an arena parking area.

CRUISER STOLEN

On Sept. 21 last year Sauer stole the 35-foot cruiser St. Roche II from the McKay-Cormack yards at 130 Kingston and wrecked her on the rocks at Ozed Bay on the Washington coast. The $3,000 vessel was a total loss.

On Sept. 16 this year Sauer graduated to the $10,000 cruiser Blue Chip which he stole from the same yard and wrecked near Port Grenville on the Washington coast.

PLEADS GUILTY

A second man who went on the last cruise of the Blue Chip, Karoly Andia, no fixed address, also pleaded guilty to the theft and was sentenced to two years in penitentiary.

WE CAN CUT SEASONAL UNEMPLOYMENT

Something CAN be done about seasonal unemployment in Canada; it can be cut almost in half by following a simple formula developed in Sweden, says veteran Ottawa correspondent Michael Barkway in the current issue of The Star Weekly. Four out of ten men caught in winter lay-offs are construction workers who could be kept on the job if the Canadian government would follow the Swedes' plan. Read this interesting article in this week's Star Weekly.

With its "grow-in" work ability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction. It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.  "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING WHAT IS FOREST SIDING? Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs milled to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.  APPEARANCE? For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 8-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of the grade.  WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES? "FOREST" siding with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flash-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint. "FOREST" siding represents an ECONOMY to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor costs.  HOW IS IT APPLIED? As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.  HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED? If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and a good water-proof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.  WHEN YOU BUY SPECIFY "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING or WESTERN RED CEDAR BEVEL SIDING  BRITISH COLUMBIA FOREST PRODUCTS LTD. Victoria Sawmill Division Fir, Hemlock and Cedar Lumber Products Plywood Cedar Shakes PRES-TO-LOGS Phone EV 5-3331 371 Gorge Road E.	BUILDING SUPPLIES Quality Supplies for Every Job  Shop us first for all your home improvement needs... and save. By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY
It can be a mistake to play an "obvious" card quickly. This is not because obvious plays are often wrong, but because they are likely to pull you into play without thinking. South avoided this pitfall in today's deal, and was rewarded with a pleasant surprise in the form of an essential trick.
The rule for opening four-card suits suggests bidding the suit below the singleton. However, West took doubtful action when he opened his weak diamond suit.
Most players would prefer a one club opening, planning to rebid in spades over a one heart response. Declarer won the opening lead with the diamond king. His first problem was establishing the hearts.
Being a careful player, he considered the possibility of a singleton ace in the West hand, and didn't make the "obvious" lead of the heart queen. South could afford to lead the small heart from his hand because of the diamond nine in dummy. Should the heart suit become blocked, declarer could overtake his diamond queen with the ace and later finesse the diamond nine providing dummy with an extra entry.
Forced to play his heart ace on South's deuce, West exited with a diamond. South won, cashed the heart queen and led a diamond to dummy. Then he ran all his red suit winners, coming down to two spades and two clubs.
Since West had started with four diamonds and one heart, the bidding and his opening lead marked him with four in each black suit. West could not blank an ace or he would be thrown in with that card and forced to yield a trick in the other black suit. When West held two clubs and two spades, declarer had only to lead any card from dummy and cover whatever East played. West could take two tricks in the suit, but had to give declarer his king in the other suit for the game.

Little Fallout Nikita's Trump?

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Is Soviet Premier Khrushchev holding a hidden ace on his huge series of nuclear explosions?

He still hasn't told the world how "clean" or how "dirty" his bombs are.

The suspicion grows that Russia may finally have caught up with the United States in producing what is termed a relatively clean bomb creating only small amounts of fissionable products.

PRESIDENT HINTS

In 1957 former President Eisenhower hinted the United States had achieved a 95-5 fission-fusion ratio on hydrogen explosions.

That meant the United States could detonate a big hydrogen bomb with only five per cent of fissionable material. It is this fissionable material that causes radioactive debris harmful to humanity.

At the time the Americans had achieved a 95-5 ratio, Russia was still exploding her bombs with a 50-50 ratio. Half the materials in her nuclear bombs were dirty.

Some of the smaller Soviet explosions in the current series apparently were dirty because a sharp rise in fallout was noted in Canada and the United States as well as Japan.

But American radiation authorities so far have found relatively no fallout from the 25-megaton blast of Oct. 23.

DEBRIS IN AIR?

There may be many reasons why surveillance teams haven't found increased fallout where they expected. One may be an error in plotting the radioactive cloud by the U.S. weather office. Another may be that the debris is in the air to be swept down later. And there have been chimps in the atmosphere shifting the debris to other regions.

Another may be that Khrushchev's scientists have finally found a way of producing a bigger blast with a small fissionable trigger.

"...but, honey, it was all HIS idea."

Scientist Doubts N-Bomb Value

WASHINGTON (CP)—Experiments with a chimpanzee have cast doubts on the tactical value of a so-called "death ray" or neutron bomb now reported to be getting high priority in U.S. government nuclear experiments.

Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a nuclear scientist and former consultant to the U.S. defence department, said experiments have shown it takes about 10,000 rads—a unit of radiation—to kill a chimpanzee in one hour. The biological makeup of the chimp is considered somewhat similar to that of man.

The neutron bomb, under its latest conception, might bombard the enemy on the field with about 500 rads in a radius of a mile or so if the bomb was detonated at a height of about 1,000 feet, Lapp estimated in an interview.

All these figures are tentative because the bomb is still a matter of theory. Lapp said no one has ever built the bomb and no one has yet invented the small chemical trigger that would be required to explode the weapon.

"With a dosage of 500 rads, it would take several weeks for about one-half the people in the target area to die."

"The military people do not consider this a tactical death."

FEARS RUSSIANS AHEAD

Senator Thomas Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, has urged President Kennedy to make every effort to convert the neutron bomb or so-called silent death ray concept into a practical reality.

Dodd's fear is that the Russians may already be working on this bomb and thus may gain a great tactical advantage.

Lapp, now an official of a science corporation, said that despite all the talk of a silent ray that would kill humans and have buildings intact, the neutron bomb would have some initial blast effect. But if it was exploded high enough, say at 1,000 feet, the blast would leave structures undamaged.

Pens, Secret Projects All Tested in Busy Lab

OTTAWA (CP)—A busy laboratory here tests everything from ball-point pens to top-secret military materials to ensure that the federal government gets its money's worth.

Tons of samples of cement, oil, paint, brick, marble, asphalt, soap, detergents, wax and other materials pour into the two-storey laboratory building operated by the public works department.

CAREFUL TESTS

Manufactured articles, such as office chairs, fire extinguishers, pencil sharpeners and even tap washers go through careful tests designed by trained technicians.

The tests are designed to ensure that every piece of material in the millions of dollars worth of orders the government places each year is up to specifications.

UNDER WRAPS

Top-secret defence projects are kept under wraps and a reporter, being shown through the building by laboratory director Norman Laycraft, was steered past them quickly.

"We test anything for every department," said Mr. Laycraft, a chunky, 45-year-old chemist who has worked in the laboratory since 1942.

The Regina native heads a staff of 121 which includes a geologist, engineers, chemists, draughtsmen and technicians. These men often have to devise their own tests when faced with materials never before put through their processing mill.

Polio Victim Still in Lung

SUDBURY (UPI)—Fernand Poulin, 18, went home Wednesday after spending half his life in hospital, a victim of paralytic polio. He was discharged from Sudbury General Hospital but he still will need an iron lung, lent him by the hospital.

When he was admitted Sept. 11, 1952, a few days before his ninth birthday, doctors gave him less than a week to live.

For the past five years Poulin had been able to visit his parents, four sisters and two brothers for a few hours at a time, but was still forced to sleep in the respirator.

Officials Pained

Theatre Loses On Grand Scale

WINNIPEG (CP)—Summer theatre has lost $13,000 on its first offering, the musical comedy "Most Happy Fella."

The association was formed in 1956 by 70 citizens to bring good professional theatre to Rainbow Stage which had been built and operated by the Winnipeg parks board. It promptly began losing money on a grand scale and has done so ever since.

Losses have caused considerable pain to civic officials because the city is frequently called on for subsidies and to meet bills.

After the 1957 production of "Can-Can" had a money-losing run, Alderman Douglas Chisholm said: "I could get together more people than that for a yo-yo contest."

Toronto No Longer City of Anglo-Saxons

TORONTO (CP)—Immigration has changed the picture of Toronto as a strongly Anglo-Saxon city.

Two years ago the city proper—Toronto without the 12 suburbs that are included in the metropolitan area—was 70 per cent British.

Today people of British descent account for only 40 per cent. And the city's population remains at 640,588, close to what it was in 1951.

Shelter Psychosis Hit

U.S. 'Ostriches' Could Dowse Rising Economy

WASHINGTON (TNS)—Fallout shelter psychosis—the gnawing suspicion that maybe we won't be around next year—now has such a grip on the American mentality that it is threatening to dowse the nation's economic boom.

An economist, Dr. George Clive Smith of New York, has appealed to America's nuclear-scarred consumers:

"Get your heads out of the fallout shelter and act as though you think the economy is going to last for a while."

OBSESSION BLAMED

Dr. Smith criticizes the "ostrich-like preoccupation with fallout shelters" and admits the psychosis is fine for the cinder-blocks business, but it isn't doing much for the economy in general.

For the sake of business, Dr. Smith pinpoints the obsession now sweeping the nation on fallout shelters and the proximity of nuclear war.

JUST LIKE NOAH

These are now as basic to American conversation as home runs and the private lives of the Kennedys. Americans are building shelters with the fatalistic zeal of Noah building his ark or the shipwrecked sailor binding his raft.

Many people are being kyped, pouring fantastic prices they cannot afford to build shelters they may never need.

There are good and bad builders of fallout shelters, but it looks as if there won't be a poor one.

NEW SALES PITCH

To give $100 worth of protection to each American adds up to $20,000,000,000 of business.

The sales pitch is entering high gear:

"Are your loved ones protected? Have you prepared for survival? screams the poster. "If the enemy comes—will you be ready?" another asks.

'HAVEN' OFFERED

"A safe haven in event of an enemy attack is now within the reach of every family. Did you know that a family bomb shelter can be built for as low as $895? A cheap price for your family's safety, isn't it? Your family swimming pool is the perfect spot for a shelter. Just three feet of water affords better protection against a neutron bomb than a 30-ft. wall. If you don't have one, we'll build you a pool, too, along with your shelter."

The nation's leaders now face a critical moral dilemma:

How much should they encourage Americans to build fallout shelters?

While a mild shelter program is under way, the decision to launch a multi-billion-dollar crash program is complicated by mixed views of the value of shelters and the types that should be built.

Some scientists believe shelters a poor idea because everything within 25 miles of a large blast would be cut from oxygen and those hiding beneath it would perish.

BETTER EQUIPPED

The history of civil defence in the United States is riddled with pitfalls and errors and probably the average American is no better protected today than he was 10 years ago, despite federal spending of more than $600,000,000.

PEOPLE PSYCHOTIC

The first Kennedy Congress voted $207,000,000 for civil defence, but that's just a drop in the ocean. This spending, it is claimed, will save 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 Americans who may otherwise perish—about one in 15 of the nation's population.

No wonder many people are becoming psychotic about fallout shelters.

They don't want to be among the 14 out of 15 for whom no protection is being arranged.

What effect might today's fallout from Soviet bomb testing have on children yet unborn? Scientists aren't agreed on the extent of the danger. Death most definitely possible some years later. This is the second of three articles on fallout.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest toll from Russia's monster 50-megaton-plus H-bomb could be among tomorrow's children.

Its radioactive fallout might doom hundreds or even thousands of the world's children—over a number of future generations—to early death or physical or mental defects from hereditary damage.

SLIGHT FRACTION

Almost all geneticists assume that any increase in radiation could cause genetic damage to some people.

Most think the effect from present fallout—and that added now by the Soviets—will be a very slight fraction of one-per-cent increase over the number of children now born with genetic defects. The increase could be so slight as not to be detectable.

GREAT NUMBER SEEN

But with 100,000,000 children born in the world each year, even a slight increase in the rate of defective births could mean sizeable numbers of damaged or stillborn humans in 50 to 100 years or more.

ESTIMATE OFFERED

Dr. Linus Pauling, famous California Institute of Technology chemist, and a crusader against bomb testing, does estimate a number:

From a 50-megaton bomb alone, 40,000 infants could be born with physical or mental defects in the next few generations throughout the world, he says. And 400,000 more genetically injured during the next 6,000 years through radioactive Carbon 14 created by such a bomb.

OTHERS DISAGREE

Other scientists disagree with his estimate, particularly that dealing with Carbon-14.

U.S. chemists measure radioactive fallout at the Radiological Safety Office in Cambridge, Mass.

The difficulty in any estimate is that some crucial facts are not known about human genes produced in the sex glands which determine the inherited characteristics that babies will have.

It is known that radiation can alter or mutate genes, and that most mutations are harmful.

It is not known if genes can resist tiny amounts of radiation such as represented by fallout atoms which enter sex glands or genes.

All the evidence from experiments with animals, fruit flies, and single cells indicates there is no threshold or tolerable level.

Thus, geneticists assume any increase in radiation is potentially harmful.

One encouraging note from mouse experiments is that chronic exposure to a low dose of radiation—10 roentgens a day given over a number of days—produces fewer mutations than an equal total dose given all at once. Exposure of sex glands to fallout atoms can be chronic or long-lasting, and at an almost infinitesimally small dose.

CHEMICALS BLAMED

Many experts assume that natural background radiation has always been causing some of the genetic mutations to which the human race is subject. Heat and chemicals are more powerful causes of genetic changes.

A National Academy of Sciences committee has estimated 2,000,000,000 children will be born in the world during the next 30 years, and that some 4,000,000 of them would possess tangible genetic effects from natural or spontaneous causes.

OTHER CAUSE SEEN

Different authorities estimate two to 10 per cent of such genetic defects might be due to natural background radiation.

So, even a slight increase in radioactivity produced by bomb tests could increase this rate of genetic mutations. The experts all agree the increase would not be enough to cause any worry about the future of the human race by any means.

Some scientists say that through modern medicine and humanitarian treatment, science is keeping alive people ill or weak because of defective genes, and the fact they can have children may result in passing along more defective genes than would ever result from fallout radiation.

A consensus of the experts: Bomb testing represents a definite but small hazard to human posterity.

B.C. Fishing Uneconomic

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Washington state economist says the British Columbia fishing industry is uneconomic.

Dr. J. A. Crutchfield of the University of Washington says there are too many fishermen, too much expensive equipment, and it is costing more and more to catch the same amount of fish as 20 years ago.

"One department of government is busily improving the efficiency of gear while another department is busy legislating against its use," he said.

Peace Researchers Unite

The Tension-Fighters

MONTREAL (CP) — Three prominent Canadian scientists yesterday announced the establishment of the Canadian Peace Research Institute—a non-profit institute incorporated under federal charter "to engage scientists in full-time research on problems that underlie international tensions and the nuclear peril."

The announcement was made at the third annual seminar on international affairs at Sir George Williams University by Norman Z. Alcock of Oakville, Ont., engineer and nuclear physicist; Dr. Brock Chisholm of Victoria, former director-general of the World Health Organization, and Kenneth E.

Boulding, professor of economics at the University of Michigan and formerly of McGill University.

The scientists said financial arrangements for the institute will be complete early in 1962 and "it will be operating, with an initial staff of 25 scientific personnel, in 1962."

Institute scientists would examine the physical, economic and social bases of international tension and recommend means of alleviating or eliminating them to the government.

Early projects of the Canadian Peace Research Institute would include four basic problems:

1. Psychological barriers to disarmament and a world authority. The study would include analysis of the instinctive and economic fears of disarming and of submitting to a world authority, and devising means of removing the basis of these fears.

2. Development of safeguards against accidental war. Scientists would devise methods of preventing an accidental nuclear explosion and would seek to improve communications between major powers to prevent the outbreak of war over a nuclear accident.

3. Analysis of the experience of United Nations police forces to determine the requisites for most effective action.

4. Compilation of a yearbook on international tensions. Using sociological techniques, scientists would predict trouble spots in the world so that preventive measures could be taken before crises were reached.

The establishment and operation of the institute from 1962 to 1966, the scientists said, will cost about $4,000,000.

Public subscriptions for half the amount would be sought, and the federal government would be asked to match them.

The Peace Research Institute, to be established at a university in Eastern Canada, is supported by five national organizations: Voice of Women, the Canadian Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards, the Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, the Society of Friends (Quakers) and the World Federalists of Canada.

Only Road to Peace: Reds Renounce Goal

MONTREAL (UPI)—Present world tensions will come to an end only when the Communists renounce their plans for world domination, Arthur Schlesinger, special adviser to the U.S. president said last night.

"The basic issue between the Communists and our society is a disagreement over the meaning of history."

Vancouver Police

Detective Fired After Secret Trial

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Det. Sgt. Donald Macdonald, chief of the Vancouver police gambling squad, was fired yesterday after a secret trial.

Macdonald, on the police force for 26 years, announced his own dismissal. Police Chief George Archer, who fired him, and Deputy Chief Gordon Ambrose, who prosecuted Macdonald at the trial, declined to comment on grounds the matter was a "domestic one."

The firing came after a day-and-a-half of secret hearings on eight charges of breaking the police disciplinary code.

Macdonald pleaded innocent to all charges.

Property Sales Start Monday At City Hall

More than 40 property bargains will be offered at city hall Monday when the annual sale of property for back taxes will be held.

When taxes have not been paid for three years the city is empowered to sell the property to recover back taxes.

Biggest bargain listed in the sale is a downtown property valued at $80,000. Back taxes are only $5,000, city assessor Alfred Joyce said last night.

Another is a $10,000 house on which $975 is owed in back taxes.

Mr. Joyce said last night owners of the properties can have them removed from the sale list by paying at least one year's back taxes before 10 a.m.

After a property has been sold, the original owner has a 1-month period in which the property can be redeemed by payment of the back taxes.

The sale will begin in the council chamber at 10 a.m.

Fines Paid For Failure To Pay Tax

Two Victorians and a musical society they operated for public entertainment at 1205 Wharf were fined $10 each on each of five counts of failing to pay hospital construction tax — formerly known as amusement tax.

Ellen Little and Ray Allen pleaded guilty for themselves and the society in city police court. Acting Magistrate J. A. Byers was told that the tax arrears had since been paid.

Gordon Cadwell, 746 Kings Road, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while impaired and, because of a prior conviction, was sentenced to 14 days in jail.

Judgment Reserved In $250,000 Case

CALGARY (CP)—Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain yesterday reserved judgment in a $250,000 supreme court damage action launched by Central Gas Utilities against Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. Ltd., a parent company, and two Canadian Western executives.

Central has alleged that Canadian Western conspired to negotiate for a natural gas franchise at Vulcan, Alta., while it was managing some of Central's affairs in the town over a three-year period and that Canadian Western planned to force the sale of Central's propane plant in the town and liquidate the smaller company.

Sale of the plant was eventually approved. G. H. Steer, counsel for the defendants, concluded his case yesterday. The action began last spring and was twice adjourned.

A critically-injured Campbell River man arrived at St. Joseph's Hospital here shortly after 11 p.m. last night to undergo a delicate brain operation by a Victoria specialist.

William Gibbons, 37, received a compound head fracture about 5:30 p.m. yesterday when his sports car plunged off a road in downtown Campbell River and came to rest upside down in the courtyard of the municipal hall.

He was rushed to Victoria in an ambulance driven by Campbell River fireman Douglas Robinson through Vancouver Island's worst storm since last winter.

The ambulance encountered rain, sleet and high winds during its four-hour journey over 175 miles of treacherous highway.

Next April Eyed As 'Logical' Time

By PETER BRUTON

Next April 1 would be the "logical" time for province-wide electricity rate reductions, B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said yesterday—and the rates may be approximately halved.

At the same time he said the overall objective was to reduce B.C. power rates to about the same level as the rates of Ontario Hydro.

(A Dominion Bureau of Statistics report for last Dec. 31 showed that a consumer who bought 300 kilowatt hours of electricity a month paid $4.11 cents in Toronto and $9.63 in Vancouver. The figures for 500 kilowatt hours were $6.63 in Toronto and $11.53 in Vancouver.)

Dr. Shrum, who was giving a "report to shareholders" of the BCE, spoke at the meeting of Victoria Rotary Club yesterday.

"Our objective is to see that we give maximum reductions to smaller users," he said, adding that it would not be "easy" to get rates down to the Ontario Hydro level.

Saddled with Buses

Dr. Shrum said the BCE was saddled with its unprofitable and money-losing bus service and also that the B.C. Electric had to pay as much as $1 an hour more in some cases for union labor than its eastern counterpart.

"Therefore we may have to wait until we get a large block of power on line before we can get down to Ontario rates," he said.

The chairman added that Ontario rates were rising while B.C. rates would get lower. Announcement that there would be a rate cut in areas served by both the B.C. Hydro and the B.C. Electric was made one week ago by Premier Bennett.

'Don't Be Alarmed'

Dr. Shrum said all resignations from the BCE had been above the manager and supervisor level, "and these are the people who make the company go."

"All vacancies have been filled by promotions in the company except an executive assistant for myself," he said. "More resignations are coming up and quite senior ones. And there will have to be more because we have a surplus of senior staff."

Realignment Sensible

Realignment of territories under which the B.C. Hydro will take over power distribution in Victoria and on Vancouver Island was a logical, sensible thing, he continued.

Eventually both entities would be merged but this was not the time to do it when both had gigantic projects under way.

"By the time the Columbia is completed the two agencies will be merged," he said. "It will be within five years."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE would absorb all B.C. Hydro employees on the mainland and would continue to pay their present salaries and honor pension plans.

It's Fallout Friday For Vancouver Island

Radioactive fallout from the recent Russian 50-megaton-plus nuclear blast will be somewhat higher than expected when it arrives over Vancouver Island today if rain happens to fall.

Since showers are forecast, Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, said the increase in fallout could be "quite significant" if the poisonous cloud arrives on schedule.

"We would get fallout from the cloud in any event," he said. "If it rains, we'll get a fair amount more."

He added that an increase in radioactivity in such a case would be in the rain itself and not in the air.

Big Powers Defeated In 'End Tests' Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Crushing opposition by the great powers, the United Nations political committee voted Thursday night for an immediate cessation of nuclear tests on a voluntary basis.

The committee voted 72 to 21 with eight abstentions for a resolution sponsored by India and five other countries. It urges both the powers concerned to refrain from further test explosions pending the conclusion of internationally binding agreements in regard to tests.

ALLIES OPPOSE IT

All the nuclear powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—opposed the resolution.

Immediately after the vote, the U.S. demanded priority for an Anglo-American draft seeking an end to all nuclear testing under a formal treaty with international control and inspection.

SLOW FOR RUSSIA

Russia suffered a defeat in preliminary voting when the committee, deleted from the Indian draft a phrase relating to general and complete disarmament.

The margin of victory for the resolution—co-sponsored by Ghana, Nepal, the United Arab Republic, Ethiopia and Yugoslavia—apparently insures its passage later in the General Assembly.

Two More

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two more Russian nuclear tests, bringing to 59 the number announced by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, were exploded early Thursday in the atmosphere.

Both were of moderate force.

Winter Strikes Island

Vancouver Island's first snowfall of the winter whirled gently down on several points yesterday, leaving a brief blanket of white on some highways, two or three inches of snow on high ground—and some extra water in the gutters of inland towns.

RCMP posts say the fall was too light to be more than a temporary inconvenience to motorists.

No snow had fallen in Victoria, up to press time today.

TWO INCHES

Some two inches of the white stuff settled on highway No. 4, west of Qualicum, but had melted by last night.

Britain May Switch To Tenpenny 'Bob'

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported yesterday to be nearing a final decision to convert to decimal coinage.

Reports said Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd will make a statement on the long-discussed switch before Christmas.

Most favored plan is to go over to a new shilling worth 10 pennies and a pound worth 10 shillings.

The shilling (14½ cents) now is made up of 12 pennies. There are 20 shillings in the pound ($2.90).

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

EVERY morning about five minutes to 10 the alcoholics drift along to Johnson Street liquor store in Victoria for their day's nourishment.

If they have enough money they are already waiting there when the man pulls up the blind and opens the store.

Usually, however, they assemble in small groups just before 10 a.m., dig down in the pockets of their crumpled clothes for coins, and put together enough to buy a bottle of cheap wine amongst them.

Then away they go with the liquid treasure, and drink it in a room on lower Johnson Street. If they haven't been able to scrape together rent money, they take shelter under Johnson Street bridge and consume the "goof" there.

"From the bottle they get up courage to go out on the street and handle more money from passers-by," says hotelman Nick Renard, who has been watching the parade of the alcoholics for 25 years.

"And so they go back and forth all day, between the liquor store and their hideout," he observes. "That's the life they lead."

It makes Mr. Renard sad to watch the compulsive drinkers pass by, for two reasons:

1. He sympathizes with them, and hates to see such a waste of human resources.

2. When they hang about on the way to or from the liquor store, it bothers guests at his hotel.

The Royal Olympic, of which Mr. Renard is the manager, has spent some $150,000 in the last seven years to make itself smarter and more comfortable. It has changed its name in an effort to down the raffish reputation that (some people thought) went with the old name, the St. James.

A patrol of alcoholics, camped in front of the hotel, can destroy the appearance of comfort and neatness that Mr. Renard and his men have worked so hard to create, these last seven years.

"Look at the plants we put in, with a stream of water running down in summer time, and the way we remodelled the facade," Mr. Renard said. "Tourists even stop and take pictures of that."

"Sometimes the alcoholics hang around the doorway of the butcher store on the corner, and sometimes they hang around here. I've had to ask them to move along somewhere else."

"I don't call them goof-bounds. They're hopeless alcoholics, and when I see them I say to myself—'that could be me, or you.' Yes, one of them could have been me."

"Why the government sells liquor to these hopeless alcoholics is beyond my comprehension," Mr. Renard said.

"It's a hard decision for the man in the liquor store," I objected. "Unless the customer is actually drunk, or on the interdict list, what can he do?"

"I won't serve any known alcoholics in my beer parlor," Mr. Renard said. "Instead of selling them liquor, the government should make an effort to have them rehabilitated and restored to society and human dignity."

"They should be treated as human beings. Why shouldn't they be brought to a level of decency, where they can live amongst us?"

"There should be a rehabilitation centre, where these men were given work to do. Instead of sending them to Oakalla, why not put them on a farm where they can work, and feel that they are doing something useful?"

"I suppose you know that a lot of welfare money goes for liquor... Well, they take a drunk and they shut him up for a while and dry him out, and when they release him, where does he go? Right back to his old environment."

"Is there anybody there to be kind to him when he comes out? Does anybody want him? So he goes back into the same old rut. A little of the milk of human kindness would work wonders."

"I think you're right," I agreed, "and the fact is that it would save the taxpayers money too, if they spent something on a rehabilitation plan."

Mr. Renard went on to talk about his hotel. He invited me inside and showed me some of the rooms, which looked comfortable and well-furnished.

"We're on a folder among the leading hotels in town, including the Empress," he said. "And if anybody asks for a room who we have reason to know is a drunk, or morally doubtful, we turn him down."

"Do you know that this is the most solid building in town?" Mr. Renard asked. "It's reinforced concrete, all the walls and every floor concrete, built to withstand earthquakes."

"There used to be a stream that ran on the site of the hotel, and when the building was built in 1912, special precautions were taken to prevent it from being shaken or undermined."

"I think there still is water from that old creek under there. Our sump pump takes it out."

Mr. Renard ushered me down some steps that led past the back door of a pool room and down to a sub-basement, 35 feet below Johnson Street. "When they were looking for air raid shelters in the Second War, they recommended this building," he said, and pointed to the thick concrete walls and ceiling. All around, heating and air conditioning machines were humming.

"If the whistle ever blows for another one," I said, "I'll knock on your door."

Stomach Growls? Relax

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a teen-age daughter who gets very nervous about her school work."

Even though she eats a good breakfast, she worries in school and her stomach starts growling from her nervousness. She dreads going each morning for fear other students will hear her stomach growl. Do you have a solution? — D. E. S."

From the physician's standpoint, no. From the emotional standpoint, yes. This isn't a question of what makes her stomach growl, but what makes her "very nervous about her school work."

Is she a good, fair or poor student? If she is a poor student and worries about passing, then maybe she needs some help. An understanding teacher may be able to give all of the advice and aid that are necessary.

IMPORTANT QUESTION

Or is she a pretty good student who worries because she isn't an all-A student? What is she worrying about? That is the important question.

It is of secondary importance that her stomach growls. The growling is the result of nervous tension. Relax the nerves and the growling will take care of itself.

Eating a good breakfast is fine. Maybe getting up 15 minutes earlier and eating more slowly might help.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What do you think of young mothers who still diaper their babies at the age of three and even four years? — R. S."

I think they're doing a frightful lot of needless washing because they haven't spent the necessary time to teach the little ones better.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How long can a person live on just creamed coffee and cigarettes? A woman in our neighborhood claims it won't hurt you because the coffee stimulates, the cream provides food and cigarettes can be pleasing. — Mrs. M. B."

I guess you could last awhile—but you'd wind up with scurvy, bad nerves and a terrible yearning for some solid food. The idea is utter hogwash.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter has a birthmark on her cheek. Our physician has been treating this with dry ice, and in the last two months (she's now one year old) the mark has diminished. Do you approve the dry ice treatment? Or would you recommend another type of treatment? — R.E."

I approve of the dry ice treatment, in cases in which it is suitable, but there are different kinds of birthmarks, different sizes, different locations. As with so many things, each case must be judged on its own merits.

Second Start To World Trip

In safe harbor at Kingston, Jamaica, is 67-year-old Ormond Griffin and his 50-foot ketch Dawdler.

Mr. Griffin left Victoria Sept. 17, 1960. It was his second attempt to take his boat on a round-the-world trip.

The first try, in December, 1959, ended two weeks after it began when the Dawdler hit gale force winds off southern Washington. It limped back into Victoria for extensive repairs.

The tall sprightly retired firefighter is wintering at Kingston. After the hurricane season he plans to take his sailboat south through the West Indies to Brazil before venturing across the broad expanse of the South Atlantic to Capetown.

From Africa, he will sail through the Indian Ocean to Australia, then head home to Victoria.

Mr. Griffin wasn't after any sailing records on the first leg of his trip.

The sturdy little ketch lived up to its name, dawdling down the coast to Mexico.

There the vessel explored the coast, visited harbors and went south to Panama, calling at a number of islands.

Once in the Caribbean, Griffin sailed along the coast of Panama and Colombia before arriving at Kingston.

He spends his time in Jamaica restocking the Dawdler and making minor repairs. Main advantage of the trip was off South Mexico where the Dawdler lay for 10 days, bucking adverse tides with her tiny motor.

Most of the voyage was made alone, picking up occasional passengers between ports.

Mr. Griffin's love for the sea was born when he worked in the shipbuilding industry as a young man.

Lineup for Jobs Getting Shorter

By PAT O'NEILL

NANAIMO—The lines of men and women drawing unemployment insurance from the Nanaimo employment office are getting shorter as the employment picture brightens.

The pattern this fall continues to be far better than the same period last year.

CUT BY 200

At this time in 1960 over 750 men were out of work. This year the figure has been cut by almost 200.

The employment situation for women is even better. Last year in the first week of November almost 300 women were drawing unemployment insurance. This year just over 150 are registered.

WORKERS IN DEMAND

Construction is booming here and as projects are completed new work is ready to begin. Construction workers are in demand.

Outsiders Swell Alberni Job Rolls

FORT ALBERNI—The local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission states there has been an influx of non-resident job applicants due to publicity given construction and public service projects in the district.

There was a total of 737 unemployed applicants on Oct. 31. It was reported, of these 295 were women.

Players Chase Spirits

NANAIMO—Yellow Point Drama Group is considering inviting spiritualist groups in Victoria and the lower mainland to give some technical advice on a ghost play to be presented in Nanaimo in December.

The play, The Playful Inn, will be played in the Cedar Community Hall Dec. 8 and 9.

An executive meeting of the group heard suggestions that spiritualist groups be invited to advise the group on the characterization of the "ghosts."

MORE REGISTERS

Officials state that an increase in opportunities for women's employment has also contributed to the number of unemployed applicants in the list.

"Many women who have not been too active in the employment field are now registering for employment."

"As small local construction projects are completed," says a UIC spokesman, "a slight increase in skilled and unskilled categories is noted."

CLAIMS DOWN

Benefit claims at the end of October numbered 353 as compared to 505 on the same date in 1959.

The local spokesman expressed the hope that municipalities and improvement districts would take full advantage of the winter works incentive program in order that surplus labor may be decreased over the winter months.

Ship Drops Propeller

NANAIMO—A 19,000-ton Liberty ship dropped her propeller off Entrance Island here early yesterday.

The ship was called and they towed the ship to drydock in Vancouver.

Island Free of Red Tide

Green Light to Diggers

The federal fisheries department has re-opened all areas on Vancouver Island for clam digging.

Red tide conditions of 1957 brought the danger of food poisoning to those who ate shellfish from some Vancouver Island waters, especially in the middle north of the island. In 1957 there were a number of cases of food poisoning after a feed of shellfish.

For some time a ban was placed on gathering of all shellfish, and this has been gradually lifted until recently only the taking of butter clams in the Courtenay and Campbell River areas was prohibited for health purposes.

A new order lifts the closure on Areas 13, 14 and 15, which means the whole island is free of the red tide menace.

Ottawa Loans $23,750 To Kiwanis

OTTAWA (CP)—A 40-year $23,750 federal loan for construction of six low-rental dwelling units for elderly persons in Courtenay was announced Thursday.

The National Housing Act loan goes to a company sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Courtenay and is in addition to a $16,208 grant by the provincial government.

Safety Session

Duncan Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring local "lights-bike" campaign as traffic safety measure this year with free application of reflective tape to 100 bikes at North Cowichan fire hall at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Jaycee Roger Hilliard points out safety device applied to bike of 18-year-old Patricia Sharp as Cpl. Hockstader looks on, approvingly. (Wesley Studio Photo.)

Newcastle Program Pushed by Chamber

NANAIMO—Retiring Nanaimo Alderman Hal Burns has been named by the local chamber of commerce to head a committee which will press for rapid development of Newcastle Island.

The first job of the committee, which also includes Bill McFarlane, Captain Herbert Jeffries and J. MacDonald, will try to find out what the government's plans are for development this year.

The chamber feels Newcastle is not being developed as quickly as required for tourists. The island is a provincial park in the heart of Nanaimo harbor.

The committee feels with an influx of tourists expected next year, part of the overflow from Century 21 Fair in Seattle, Newcastle should be developed as quickly as possible.

Car-Train Crash Ends in $10 Fine

DUNCAN—Repercussions of a car-train crash here Sept. 27 which almost took the lives of a Cobble Hill family of three came to an end yesterday when the father was fined $10 for failing to stop at a railway crossing while a train was approaching.

John Worthington, unemployed, was fined $10 and given time in which to pay.

He and his wife and two independent witnesses testified the train had failed to sound any audible warning.

Worthington said he was unable to see the approaching train because of roadside underbrush and the sharp angle at which the road he was travelling on intersected the railway line.

Members of the train crew and one independent witness testified that the whistle and bell had been sounded as the train approached the intersection.

Mr. and Mrs. Worthington were taken to Duncan hospital after the crash and their young daughter, Debbie, was brought to Victoria in critical condition. She has since returned home and is recovering.

A Youthful Peek at Berlin

COURTENAY—Not many 19-year-olds are able to boast they have been behind the Iron Curtain but one local youth, Bruce Watson, will have some interesting tales to tell when he gets back from a European trip this spring.

Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Watson of Royston, is in Europe working and thumbing his way through the Old World.

His expedition to West Germany resulted in a sidetrip to East Berlin which opened the eyes of the youth who was brought up in the quiet atmosphere in the Comox Valley.

In a letter to his parents he writes that he and his companions, three Canadians including two from Victoria, didn't know quite what to expect, "the East German and Russian guards looked mean with their tommy guns."

Islander Gets Eyeful

His stay in Europe included many stops in old castles now serving as youth hostels.

It was when in one of these that he really felt right in the midst of atmosphere of a divided Germany.

The hostel, an old mansion, was right at the tip of the West German zone.

"Everywhere we looked was Russian territory. The concrete and wire fence of the hostel was the Russian border," he wrote.

At night he saw Red police with flashlights searching for escapees in the woods.

On the nearby canal a boat swept its floodlight around the area. Once the beam crossed the youths, who were tempted young, 17 and 18. "It was like a regular Hitler Youth Movement," he wrote.

East Berlin was drab but well lit. Packaging of food was amateurish and there was little real advertising of the plain goods seen in the stores.

Buy the Hydro Building

City council's plan to buy the B.C. Hydro building for use as a new city hall is popular among property owners, a public opinion poll conducted by the Colonist showed yesterday.

Most of the property owners—11 of them—favored the plan to buy the B.C. Hydro building. One wanted the city to spend up to $2,000,000 to build a new city hall and two others felt the present building should be retained.

City property owners will be asked to vote Dec. 14 on whether or not they approve the council's plan to buy the B.C. Hydro building for $800,000.

If the plebiscite returns a majority against the plan, the council will be prepared for construction of a new city hall and this will be put to voters.

Opinions gathered yesterday on city streets and by telephone included:

Pearl Robertson, 3085 Doncaster: "It is immaterial where they have the city hall—people will go to it. The Hydro building is a nice building and it isn't too far out of town. I think it would be the better deal to buy it."

W. T. Atkins, 2861 Mt. Stephen: "They had better buy the second-hand building—the present building is condemned and it isn't suitable for Victoria's city hall."

Mrs. A. J. Laundry, 1960 Fairfield: "I can't possibly see anything wrong with the Hydro building, myself. It is cheap, too."

S. G. Campbell, 2518 Graham: "They should buy the Hydro building. They can't afford to build a new city hall. I don't like the present city hall. If they keep on there it is going to fall down around them—what hasn't fallen down already."

Mrs. Ken Hughes, 1680 Richardson: "They need a new city hall. The present building is an awful looking one. I would say that if they can save money and have a nice building like the Hydro building they should go ahead."

James Savident, 1454 Hillside: "I certainly don't like it (the council plan). Why they want to shift I don't know. I have been here 30 years and I don't see why they want to

Heat Is On, Pearson Warns

Police Read 'Riot Act' to Juveniles Amid Jeers in Front of Parents

Halloween High-Jinks Accounts Accurate, Say Saanich Officials

By ED COSGROVE

Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson last night refused to "whitewash" the Halloween antics of about 80 juveniles which almost developed into a full-scale riot.

Instead he told a group of some 30 parents and youngsters that the "heat was on" for juveniles who defied the law.

But at the same time there were indications that the "heat was on" for Chief Pearson and juvenile officer Harry Adams to "toss down" the affair.

The pressure was apparent last night, where property-owning parents charged newspapers, radio and television with giving the incident the "sensational treatment."

But Chief Pearson and Mr. Adams said they felt press coverage of the incident "was a pretty accurate picture of what went on."

Their words were greeted by jeers from the 30 teenagers present.

The meeting, held in Gordon Head Community Hall, was ordered by the chief constable in an effort to enlist parental support in dealing with the youngsters named by investigators as members of the Halloween mob.

... no whitewash

If anything, press reports leaned on the side of leniency, according to Mr. Adams.

"The press states that Constable (John) Post and I were subject to a barrage of verbal filth, firecracker and rocks for an hour... by my watch it was more like three hours," he told the meeting.

Youngsters present showed little sign of remorse or fear of the consequences for the Halloween incident.

They laughed derisively at several statements by the chief and Mr. Adams, sniggered during descriptions of the forays against the police by bands of youths, and shot questions at the two police officers.

The only time they were deadly serious was when the juvenile officer said:

"I intend to proceed with the investigation of this matter under the direction of the chief constable. I will treat you as individuals, not as a group."

Stigma That Remains for Life

The chief delivered a stern lecture on sections of the Criminal Code dealing with assault, unlawful assembly, threatening, intimidation, damage to property and resisting arrest.

He warned the meeting that any or all of the acts leading up to and during the battle with police could lead to arrest and conviction under sections of the code.

"It's a misconception that you would only be dealt with as a juvenile. This holds no terrors—in fact in several high schools in this city, you're not 'accepted' until you have appeared in juvenile court," he said.

Conviction in a criminal court, even if the sentence was suspended, leaves the person charged with a stigma that remains throughout his life, said the chief.

"Once you have acquired the prestige of being fingerprinted and had a mug shot taken... this stays with you, no matter where you go, for the rest of your life."

He said Tuesday's action of threatening a teacher with a beating if he left his own property could be interpreted as "intimidation" under the Criminal Code.

And he warned that property owners could use whatever force necessary to remove trespassers—"If the provocation is severe, the property owner can use force sufficient to kill and be protected by the law if it is aggravated," said the chief.

Throwing rocks and firecrackers at a police constable is an assault, "yet you think it's a joke to act like morons," he continued.

Municipal taxes paid the damage to the police car (which had a windshield smashed by a rock), said Mr. Adams.

"It's no skin off my nose—your parents pay."

His account of the night's havoc at times brought laughter from the youths, who later were asked to leave the meeting so parents could question the two officers.

What Are We—Bunch of Capones?

When their turn came, the audience of mainly juveniles had plenty to say about the Halloween frolics.

"Don't you think we would have all gone home if you had gone back to your offices?" said one.

"Where did the two gangs come from that the press reported?" shouted another.

"This kind of stuff in the papers runs down Gordon Head... it isn't fair to the people living here," said another.

"You bet it isn't fair," replied the chief, "and you don't even live in this district."

"What are we, a bunch of Al Capones? ... we're just kids, we shouldn't be treated that way," said another.

"Where's all the damage reported in the paper?" came another derisive question.

"Either everyone tipped through the shrubs and flowers on private property, causing no damage, or people are just afraid to report it," replied Mr. Adams amid jeers.

"What I read in the papers gave the community a pretty bad name... seems the papers gave us a pretty bad shake," said a youth of 20.

"That's the way you acted... like a bunch of hoodlums... it was mob rule," replied the chief.

The officers said "intimidation" was used to force some younger members of the mob to go along.

"What's that word mean—intimidation?" shouted a youth. "We didn't want the girls or little guys along—they can't run fast enough."

Later, speaking only to parents, the chief said Tuesday's incidents seemed to result from the growing "conformity" of youngsters, who "apparently feared" to act as individuals.

"I hope that is not what you are heading for, but you have seen yourself at this meeting that they seem to think the whole thing is a hilarious joke. The conception of right or wrong seems beyond the scope of many of them."

Around the Island

Island Princess Offered For Sale to Province

A spokesman for Coast Ferries Ltd. disclosed last night that the Mv. Island Princess, now operating on the Stoveston-Gulf Islands service, has been offered for sale to the B.C. government.

Capt. O. H. New said his company's sale offer expires at midnight tonight. The deadline was imposed, he said, out of necessity for finding work in another area of the B.C. coast for the ferry if the government decided it didn't want to buy.

He said the company had decided "maybe against our better judgment" to sell for the depreciated value set by government appraisers.

"The only thing we know," said Capt. New, "is that we can't afford to carry on the present service. That's why we're going to pack it up."

The ferry company announced this week that it would drop the service between Stoveston (on the mainland) and the Gulf Islands Nov. 15. Premier Bennett said later the government would take over the service if this happened.

Island residents won a reprieve against an earlier notice by the company that the service would terminate Sept. 11.

He is Ralph W. Thompson, who has worked for eight years in the service in Kamloops, Prince George and Cranbrook.

PARKEVILLE — A search and rescue squad has been set up by Parkville Fish and Game Club and Bill Roberts and Bob Moore have been named as co-ordinators.

Three teams of about 10 to 12 men will comprise the group which will be closely linked with search and rescue teams in Nanaimo. There will also be direct contact with RCAF search and rescue headquarters in Vancouver.

In other business at the regular monthly meeting it was decided to hold the annual club dinner on Dec. 2 at the Island Hall Hotel. Hunting and fishing trophies will be presented and other awards made.

ALBERNI — William Riley said goodbye to his job as Alberni postmaster this week, a year and a half after he was scheduled to retire.

Mr. Riley has remained in the position while the post office-versus-mail delivery battle had been waged around him.

Last month Postmaster-General William Hamilton announced that Alberni's post office would be given the status of postal station and letter carrier service would be instituted emanating from Port Alberni. Douglas McDonald will be acting postmaster until the new service goes into effect.

Mr. Riley, born in Yorkshire, England, came to Kamloops in 1913. His first job was driving a grocery wagon. He has since served in the Canadian army, the RCAF and Canadian merchant marine. He was a member of the provincial police force from 1919 until 1926, serving in the Cariboo country.

In his retirement, Mr. Riley said, he would devote time to writing a book on the Cariboo which he started some years ago.

He will also undertake to establish markets for the letter slot which he invented and patented after coming to this district as assistant postmaster in Port Alberni.

CAMPBELL RIVER — A pile of logs in which a man was crushed to death Monday at Loughborough Inlet just seemed to "bell over," as inquest jury was told here yesterday.

Joseph Oberster died almost instantly when he was pinned in the heavy "cold deck" of logs, a physician testified.

There were severe injuries to the lower abdomen and pelvis and a large artery was ruptured in the right leg.

The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death and urged the use of common safety procedures when the safety of a cold deck is in doubt.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The University Experimental Farm at Oyster River has offered $100 reward for recovery of a two-year-old Agribrite heifer. Farm officials believe the animal was stolen. It has a brown spot in the middle of the forehead and has the symbol "147" tattooed in one ear.

Seedy Bookworm's Quest Surprises City Woman

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

SECRET OF SUCCESS: A city woman went into the reference section of the public library and was reading the volume she wanted when she looked up at the man who was sitting opposite her.

This character was pretty gruffly and obviously in need of a bath. In fact the woman describes him as "the filthiest person I've ever seen."

The woman's curiosity was aroused and she looked at the title—"How to Avoid Women."

THE SOUNDING BOARD: If there's one thing Dr. Gordon Shrum misses since his elevation to the chairmanship of the B.C. Electric it's the humor shown by students at University of B.C.

One day, during a lecture or sound, Dr. Shrum told his class that the resonance in a small bathroom was as good that even people who couldn't normally hold a note sounded quite good when singing in the bath.

Next day he decided to test his pupils.

"Why do people sing in bathrooms?" he asked.

"All right, what's the reason?" inquired Dr. Shrum.

"Because there is no lock on the bathroom door," said the student.

THE THINGS WE HEAR: Resignation of L. V. Jack from his executive job with the B.C. Electric will be announced within the next few days. He has been director of budgeting and control... Next meeting of the Douglas Rotary Club will be held at the local winery instead of Holyrood House. Officials expect a fantastic turnout... Librarian John Lart, after sitting through lunch between B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum and Salvation Army's Brigadier C.W. Milroy, dryly quipped: "I'm a little overworked because I'm not accustomed to being quite so close to the power and the glory!"

URGENT ITEM: The glad hand never has a cheque in it.

THE READERS WRITE: We got letters...

Mrs. A. H. points out that a certain supermarket chain is selling a brand of honey and that the cartons have a piece of adhesive paper stuck over the weight imprint. She removed the paper and found it covered a statement that the honey was produced in the U.S. "There is nothing illegal in selling American honey, surely, but isn't it illegal to try to fool the public?" she asks...

H.M. says the habit of leaving one's shoes outside the hotel room door for polishing overnight is no "quaint custom" in England or on the Continent. It has been done for centuries, he claims, and is as automatic as retiring for the night. "Might I just add that the night porter does a jolly good job and your shoes are always there next morning too," said Mr. H.M.

The same reader says that it is not correct to call the new style pedestrian crossing on Port midway between Douglas and Blanshard a "zebra crossing." They are not called this in England, adds Mr. H.M. "The correct name is Belisha, and were introduced by Leslie Belisha when a member of parliament..."

J.A.A.G. takes issue with our statement that there are still warring factions in the B.C. Conservative Association. The split, he says, has been healed.

THE SIGN OF WINTER: A month or so ago the bus sightseeing tour booth at Government and Belleville was a hive of activity, echoing to the chatter of camera-toting tourists.

Today its doors are locked, a sign proclaims that the next tour leaves at 9.15, and the clock is permanently stopped at 5.10.

Ah, well. After winter can summer be far behind?

Medical Services Study Opens Here

Some 200 representatives of prepaid medical plans in Western Canada and the U.S. Pacific Coast got down to the business of studying true costs of "free" medicine here yesterday.

Morning sessions were taken up with an analysis of the Australian Medical Benefit Fund. Members of the panel were fund chairman Sir Ronald Grieve, Dr. P. J. Banks of Victoria and Dr. E. C. McCoy of Vancouver.

The panel explained that the plan keeps down unnecessary calls by acting only after the doctor has been paid. If the bill is $10, about $8 is returned by the plan, the government refunds $3 and the patient contributes the final $1.

Island Man Critically Injured

A 37-year-old former Victorian was critically injured at Campbell River late yesterday and was rushed through an island storm to St. Joseph's Hospital here last night for a delicate brain operation.

Suffering a compound fracture of the skull after his sports car plunged out of control and landed upside-down on the courtyard of Campbell River's municipal hall is William Gibbons.

WORST STORM

Gibbons, father of a teenage boy, was brought here by Campbell River ambulance through the worst storm to sweep Vancouver Island since last winter.

Ambulance driver Douglas Robinson last night said he had been able to travel at 50 to 60 miles an hour through rain, sleet and high winds for most of the 175-mile route and lauded the co-operation of other traffic in keeping out of his way.

WRONG HOSPITAL

But through a mixup in plans he went to the wrong hospital first. Originally he was to have gone to Royal Jubilee but no beds were available. He had not been notified of a pre-arranged switch to St. Joseph's and had to make his own way through city traffic unescorted.

Hospital authorities reported Gibbons' condition as serious on arrival and said he was to be taken into surgery immediately.

FIFTY PER CENT RATE CUT GOAL, SAYS BCE CHAIRMAN

Next April Eyed For First Drop

By PETER BRUTON

Next April 1 would be the "logical" time for province-wide electricity rate reductions, B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said yesterday — and the rates may be eventually halved.

At the same time he said the overall objective was to reduce B.C. power rates to about the same level as the rates of Ontario Hydro.

(A Dominion Bureau of Statistics report for last Dec. 31 showed that a consumer who bought 300 kilowatt hours of electricity a month paid $4.11 in Toronto and $9.63 in Vancouver. The figures for 500 kilowatt hours were $6.63 in Toronto and $11.53 in Vancouver.)

(The average monthly consumption rates were 446 kwh in Toronto and 363 kwh in Vancouver.)

Dr. Shrum, who was giving a "report to shareholders" of the BCE, spoke at the meeting of Victoria Rotary Club yesterday.

"Our objective is to see that we give maximum reductions to smaller users," he said, adding that it would not be "easy" to get rates down to the Ontario Hydro level.

Saddled with Buses

Dr. Shrum said the BCE was saddled with its unprofitable and money-losing bus service and also that the B.C. Electric had to pay as much as $1 an hour more in some cases for union labor than its eastern counterpart.

"Therefore we may have to wait until we get a large block of power on line before we can get down to Ontario rates," he said.

The chairman added that Ontario rates were rising while B.C. rates would get lower.

Announcement that there would be a rate cut in areas served by both the B.C. Hydro and the B.C. Electric was made one week ago by Premier Bennett.

Yesterday Dr. Shrum said that the rates would come down after Jan. 1 and would be "significant." The most logical time for the cuts to take effect, he said, would be April 1 when both Crown agencies have their new budgets.

Dr. Shrum also said:

- More resignations among executives of the BCE are imminent.
- Both the BCE and B.C. Hydro will merge into one entity within five years.
- Reassignment of territories by the two agencies is hoped to be accomplished by absorbing all presently employed personnel.

'Don't Be Alarmed'

Dr. Shrum said all resignations from the BCE had been above the manager and supervisor level, "and these are the people who make the company go."

"All vacancies have been filled by promotions in the company except an executive assistant for myself," he said. "More resignations are coming up and quite senior ones. And there will have to be more because we have a surplus of senior staff."

"There will be more," he added.

Eventual Merger

"By the time the Columbia is completed the two agencies will be merged," he said. "It will be within five years."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE would absorb all B.C. Hydro employees on the mainland and would continue to pay their present salaries and honor pension plans.

"Practically the same thing will be done over here when the power commission takes over from the BCE," added the chairman. "There will be some staff reductions but I think these can be handled by normal staff turnover."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE had placed "a complete freeze" on new hirings at all levels.

He also said that it was planned to set one electricity level for the whole province although "we might not be able to do this immediately."

He said the rate cuts would apply to private consumers. "Industrial rates are not too far out of line," said Dr. Shrum.

added. "There will be more this week but don't be alarmed."

Dr. Shrum said there would be no reductions in the Victoria staff.

Reassignment of territories under which the B.C. Hydro will take over power distribution in Victoria and on Vancouver Island was a logical, sensible thing, he continued.

Eventually both entities would be merged but this was not the time to do it when both had gigantic projects under way.

It's Fallout Friday For Vancouver Island

Radioactive fallout from the recent Russian 50-megaton-plus nuclear blast will be somewhat higher than expected when it arrives over Vancouver Island today if rain happens to fall.

Since showers are forecast, Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory said the increase in fallout could be "quite significant" if the poisonous cloud arrives on schedule.

"We would get fallout from the cloud in any event," he said. "If it rains, we'll get a fair amount more."

He added that an increase in radioactivity in such a case would be in the rain itself and not in the air.

Big Powers Defeated In 'End Tests' Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Crushing opposition by the great powers, the United Nations political committee voted Thursday night for an immediate cessation of nuclear tests on a voluntary basis.

The committee voted 72 to 21 with eight abstentions for a resolution sponsored by India and five other countries. It urges both the powers concerned to refrain from further test explosions pending the conclusion of internationally binding agreements in regard to tests.

ALLIES OPPOSE IT

All the nuclear powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—opposed the resolution.

Immediately after the vote, the U.S. demanded priority for an Anglo-American draft seeking an end to all nuclear testing under a formal treaty with international control and inspection.

BLOW FOR RUSSIA

Russia suffered a defeat in preliminary voting when the committee deleted from the Indian draft a phrase relating to general and complete disarmament.

The margin of victory for the resolution—co-sponsored by Ghana, Nepal, the United Arab Republic, Ethiopia and Yugoslavia—apparently insures its passage later in the General Assembly.

Two More

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two more Russian nuclear tests, bringing to 30 the number announced by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, were exploded early Thursday in the atmosphere.

Both were of moderate force.

Winter Strikes Island

Vancouver Island's first snowfall of the winter whispered gently down on several points yesterday, leaving a brief blanket of white on some highways, two or three inches of snow on high ground—and some extra water in the gutters of island towns.

RCMP posts say the fall was too light to be more than a temporary inconvenience to motorists.

No snow had fallen in Victoria up to press time today. Some two inches of the white stuff settled on highway No. 4, west of Qualicum, but had melted by last night.

U.S. Preparing A-Tests in Air

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy announced yesterday that the United States is preparing to resume nuclear tests in the air—and will start the explosions if they are deemed necessary to protect the free world.

With the approval of key members of Congress, the president declared that above ground tests will be ordered if a current study of Russia's explosions shows such action is needed to maintain a nuclear advantage over the Soviets.

"We have taken major steps in the last year to maintain our lead—and we do not propose to lose it," he said. Kennedy pledged the United States would hold fallout from any atmospheric tests to an "absolute minimum." He said he had no intention of exploding anything like the 50-megaton bomb which Russia set off "in complete disregard for the welfare of mankind."

OFFER REPEATED

In a statement read to newsmen in his office, the president denounced Russia's "campaign of fear" but again offered to sign a nuclear test ban treaty so long as it provides for adequate inspection and control.

"In the meantime, as a matter of prudence, we shall make necessary preparations for such tests so as to be ready in case it becomes necessary to conduct them," he said.

Britain May Switch To Tenpenny 'Bob'

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported yesterday to be nearing a final decision to convert to decimal coinage.

Reports said Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd will make a statement on the long-discussed switch before Christmas.

Most favored plan is to go over to a new shilling worth 10 pennies and a pound worth 10 shillings.

The shilling (14½ cents) now is made up of 12 pennies. There are 20 shillings in the pound ($2.90).

Island Man Critically Injured

A 37-year-old former Victoria man was critically injured at Campbell River late yesterday and was rushed through an Island storm to St. Joseph's Hospital here last night for a delicate brain operation.

WORST STORM
Gibbons, father of a teenage boy, was brought here by Campbell River ambulance through the worst storm to sweep Vancouver Island since last winter.

Ambulance driver Douglas Robinson last night said he had been able to travel at 30 to 40 miles an hour through rain, sleet and high winds for most of the 175-mile route and lauded the co-operation of other traffic in keeping out of his way.

WRONG HOSPITAL
But through a mix-up in plans he went to the wrong hospital first. Originally he was to have gone to Royal Jubilee but no beds were available. He had not been notified of a pre-arranged switch to St. Joseph's and had to make his own way through city traffic unassisted.

Hospital authorities reported Gibbons' condition as serious on arrival and said he was to be taken into surgery immediately.

RATES CUT BY HALF BCE GOAL -- SHRUM

Next April Eyed For First Drop

By PETER BRUTON

Next April 1 would be the "logical" time for province-wide electricity rate reductions, B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said yesterday — and the rates may be eventually halved.

At the same time he said the overall objective was to reduce B.C. power rates to about the same level as the rates of Ontario Hydro.

(A Dominion Bureau of Statistics report for last Dec. 21 showed that a consumer who bought 300 kilowatt hours of electricity a month paid $4.11 in Toronto and $9.48 in Vancouver. The figures for 300 kilowatt hours were $6.63 in Toronto and $11.53 in Vancouver.

(The average monthly consumption rates were 446 kwh in Toronto and 263 kwh in Vancouver.)

Dr. Shrum, who was giving a "report to shareholders" of the BCE, spoke at the meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club yesterday.

"Our objective is to see that we give maximum reductions to smaller users," he said, adding that it would not be "easy" to get rates down to the Ontario Hydro level.

Saddled with Buses

Dr. Shrum said the BCE was saddled with its unprofitable and money-losing bus service and also that the B.C. Electric had to pay as much as $1 an hour more in some areas for union labor than its western counterpart.

"Therefore we may have to wait until we get a large block of power on line before we can get down to Ontario rates," he said.

The chairman added that Ontario rates were rising while B.C. rates would get lower.

Announcers said that there would be a rate cut in areas served by both the B.C. Hydro and the B.C. Electric was made one week ago by Premier Bennett.

'Don't Be Alarmed'

Dr. Shrum said all resignations from the BCE had been above the manager and supervisor level, "and these are the people who make the company go."

"All vacancies have been filled by promotions in the company except an executive assistant for myself," he said. "More resignations are coming up and quite senior ones. And there will have to be more because we have a surplus of senior staff."

"There will be more," he added.

Eventual Merger

"By the time the Columbia is completed the two agencies will be merged," he said. "It will be within five years."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE would absorb all B.C. Hydro employees on the mainland and would continue to pay their present salaries and honor pension plans.

"Practically the same thing will be done over here when the power commission takes over from the BCE," added Dr. Shrum. "There will be some staff reductions but I think these can be handled by normal staff turnover."

Dr. Shrum said the BCE had placed "a complete freeze" on new hirings at all levels.

He also said that it was planned to set an electricity level for the whole province although "we might not be able to do this immediately."

He said the rate cuts would apply to private consumers.

"Industrial rates are not too far out of line," said Dr. Shrum.

It's Fallout Friday For Vancouver Island

Radioactive fallout from the recent Russian 50-megaton-plus nuclear blast will be somewhat higher than expected when it arrives over Vancouver Island today if rain happens to fall.

Since showers are forecast, Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory said the increase in fallout could be "quite significant" if the poisonous cloud arrives on schedule.

"We would get fallout from the cloud in any event," he said. "If it rains, we'll get a fair amount more."

He added that an increase in radioactivity in such a case would be in the rain itself and not in the air.

Big Powers Defeated In 'End Tests' Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Crushing opposition by the great powers, the United Nations political committee voted Thursday night for an immediate cessation of nuclear tests on a voluntary basis.

The committee voted 72 to 21 with eight abstentions for a resolution sponsored by India and five other countries. It urged both the powers concerned to refrain from further test explosions pending the conclusion of international binding agreements in regard to tests.

ALLIES OPPOSE IT
All the nuclear powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—opposed the resolution.

Immediately after the vote, the U.S. demanded priority for an Anglo-American draft seeking an end to all nuclear testing under a formal treaty with international control and inspection.

BLOW FOR RUSSIA
Russia suffered a defeat in preliminary voting when the committee debated from the Indian draft a phrase relating to general and complete disarmament.

The margin of victory for the resolution—co-sponsored by Ghana, Nepal, the United Arab Republic, Ethiopia and Yugoslavia—apparently insures its passage later in the General Assembly.

Winter Strikes Island

Vancouver Island's first snowfall of the winter whirled gently down on several points yesterday, leaving a brief blanket of white on some highways, two or three inches of snow on high ground—and some extra water in the gutters of inland towns.

RCMP points say the fall was too light to be more than a temporary inconvenience to motorists.

No snow had fallen in Victoria up to press time today. Some two inches of the white stuff settled on highway No. 4, west of Qualicum, but had melted by last night.

U.S. Preparing A-Tests in Air

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy announced yesterday that the United States is preparing to resume nuclear tests in the air—and will start the explosions if they are deemed necessary to protect the free world.

With the approval of key members of Congress, the president declared that above ground tests will be ordered if a current study of Russia's explosion shows such action is needed to maintain a nuclear advantage over the Soviets.

"We have taken major steps in the last year to maintain our lead—and we do not propose to lose it," he said.

OFFER REPEATED

"In the meantime, as a matter of prudence, we shall make necessary preparations for such tests as we may be ready to conduct them," he said.
